New community bank to focus on customer service

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

A new community bank is being organized in Antioch.

The proposed state chartered commercial bank will focus on customer service and seek to reflect local historical traditions and values of community investment.

"We want the bank to be a true community bank," said John E. Wolf, Chairman of the Board, President, and Chief Executive Officer of the proposed new financial institution.

The bank will be named Great Northern Bank. Its permanent main office eventually will be located at 41412 North Highway 83, property that was part of the William E. Brook estate, the former owner of State Bank of Antioch. Prior to that location's use, other office space will be leased.

To encourage community investment, the organizers of the bank have established 500 shares as the minimum level of investment at $10 a share. An offering circular is available to inform the general public.

"They can contact us through the mail at Post Office Box 760 in Antioch," Wolf said. The offering circular will be sent in response to the inquiry. It sets forth details of the bank proposal, the background of the people who seek to organize it, risks of investment, dividend policy, use of proceeds, and many other details.

The organizers of the bank also include Taso D. Maravela, John Ruffin III, Maria M. Deligiannis, and Dennis Wm. Kemp. Also involved is John W. Heddens. The six people represent a mixture of previous banking, business, and community volunteer experience.

The Illinois Department of Banks and Real Estate is the unit of government that is expected to provide the charter to operate. The deposit accounts would be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The bank will conduct business in an area that includes Antioch, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, Fox Lake, and parts of southern Kenosha County.

"It will be a full-service community investor bank," said Wolf. "It's how you treat your customer. Banking is still a people business." He said that having good relations with people is very important.

Services to be provided include commercial loans to business people, consumer loans, home equity loans, savings accounts, checking accounts, credit cards, automated teller services, drive-in banking, safe deposit services, and certificates of deposit.

At the present time, approximately 100 people have committed to buy some shares, according to Ruffin. The bank seeks to raise between $4 and $7 million dollars to capitalize the bank.

lected, but the names have not been revealed.

"I worked for Bill Brook at State Bank of Antioch for over 10 years," Wolf said. "I was very proud to work at State Bank of Antioch for Bill Brook."

"His heart was really in the community and the bank really reflected that," he said. Wolf said the people at Great Northern Bank will put their best effort forward to recapture that spirit.

Wolf has been involved with financial institutions for more than 33 years. Most recently, he was President and Chief Executive Officer and Director of Anchor Bank in Lake Villa from 1991 to 1996, which he was instrumental in chartering as a state-chartered commercial bank. He has been an active officer of the Antioch Lions Club, a director of the Antioch Rotary Club and the Grayslake Chamber of Commerce and Industry. He has lived in the Antioch Township

Metra to increase service

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Metra officials propose to upgrade rail commuter service to Antioch in future years with more frequent weekday service.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug urged METRA officials to consider service improvements for rail commuter service to Antioch at a July 8 evening public forum in the Village of Buffalo Grove.

"I'm very pleased they are upgrading the service," she said after the public comment forum.

At the forum, Shineflug told Metra officials, "The success of this rail line is a testament to what can be accomplished when federal, state and local agencies work together to provide a much needed service to the public."

Shineflug has worked with Metra officials through the North Central Line Mayoral Task Force.

Shineflug described the popularity of the service for Antioch residents and said that service upgrades are what residents continue to request.

"As Mayor of the Village of Antioch, and as a member of the North Central Line Mayoral Task Force, I urge you on behalf of my constituents to make the necessary improvements for service to and from Antioch," she said.

Metra officials announced their preliminary preferred alternative for

Dist. 34 seeks feedback on expansion alternatives

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

District 34 officials may extend their planning process to further consider alternatives and community comment before approaching taxpayers with a school bond referendum.

Part of the extended process will include consideration of recently prepared enrollment projections and, maybe, reconsideration of all alternatives available to the board.

As a result, it is possible the district may consider a school bond referendum in April, 1999, rather than November, 1998.

"The board is being very thoughtful about this," said Dr. Daniel L. Burke, superintendent of Antioch Community Consolidated School District 34. "We want to bring to the community a package that the community will be able to support."

"The overall goal is to do this right the first time."

The district board has just received a "Student Enrollment Projection Report, 1998 to 2003" prepared by retired superintendent Richard C. Lanaghan and Burke. The report provides minimum and maximum enrollment estimates for the next seven school years, until 2004-2005.

In addition, school board officials have begun to reconsider other possibilities other than an early learning center and new classroom construction. However, "The concept of the early childhood learning center or primary center is still a very attractive alternative for the board," Burke said.

"This is the first time they've thought of extending the planning period so they can maximize their opportunities to hear from the community," Burke said.

Previously defined alternatives included: (1) building room additions to existing buildings; (2) new construction of an early learning center that would educate pre-school to second grade; (3) new construction of a Junior High School for grades 6, 7, and 8; or (4) new construction of a grade school for grades 7 and 8.

Other alternatives are: (5) restructuring all existing schools to have pre-school to grade 5 classrooms and new construction of a school for grades 6, 7, and 8; (6) new

Take a taste of Antioch during four day fest

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Taste of Antioch is more than food. It is a chance to shop, be entertained, and an opportunity to make a connection with friends and the village itself.

"This is one of the nicest ways to feel part of Antioch," said Karen Dunham, one of the organizers of the downtown Festival.

Taste of Antioch Chairman Randy Freeman said, "There are all kinds of sidewalk sales in conjunction with the taste—great deals, great values."

Also helping to put Taste of Antioch and Maxwell Street Days together is DeeDee Palmer.

The four-day village festival is a way for families to experience a good time together.

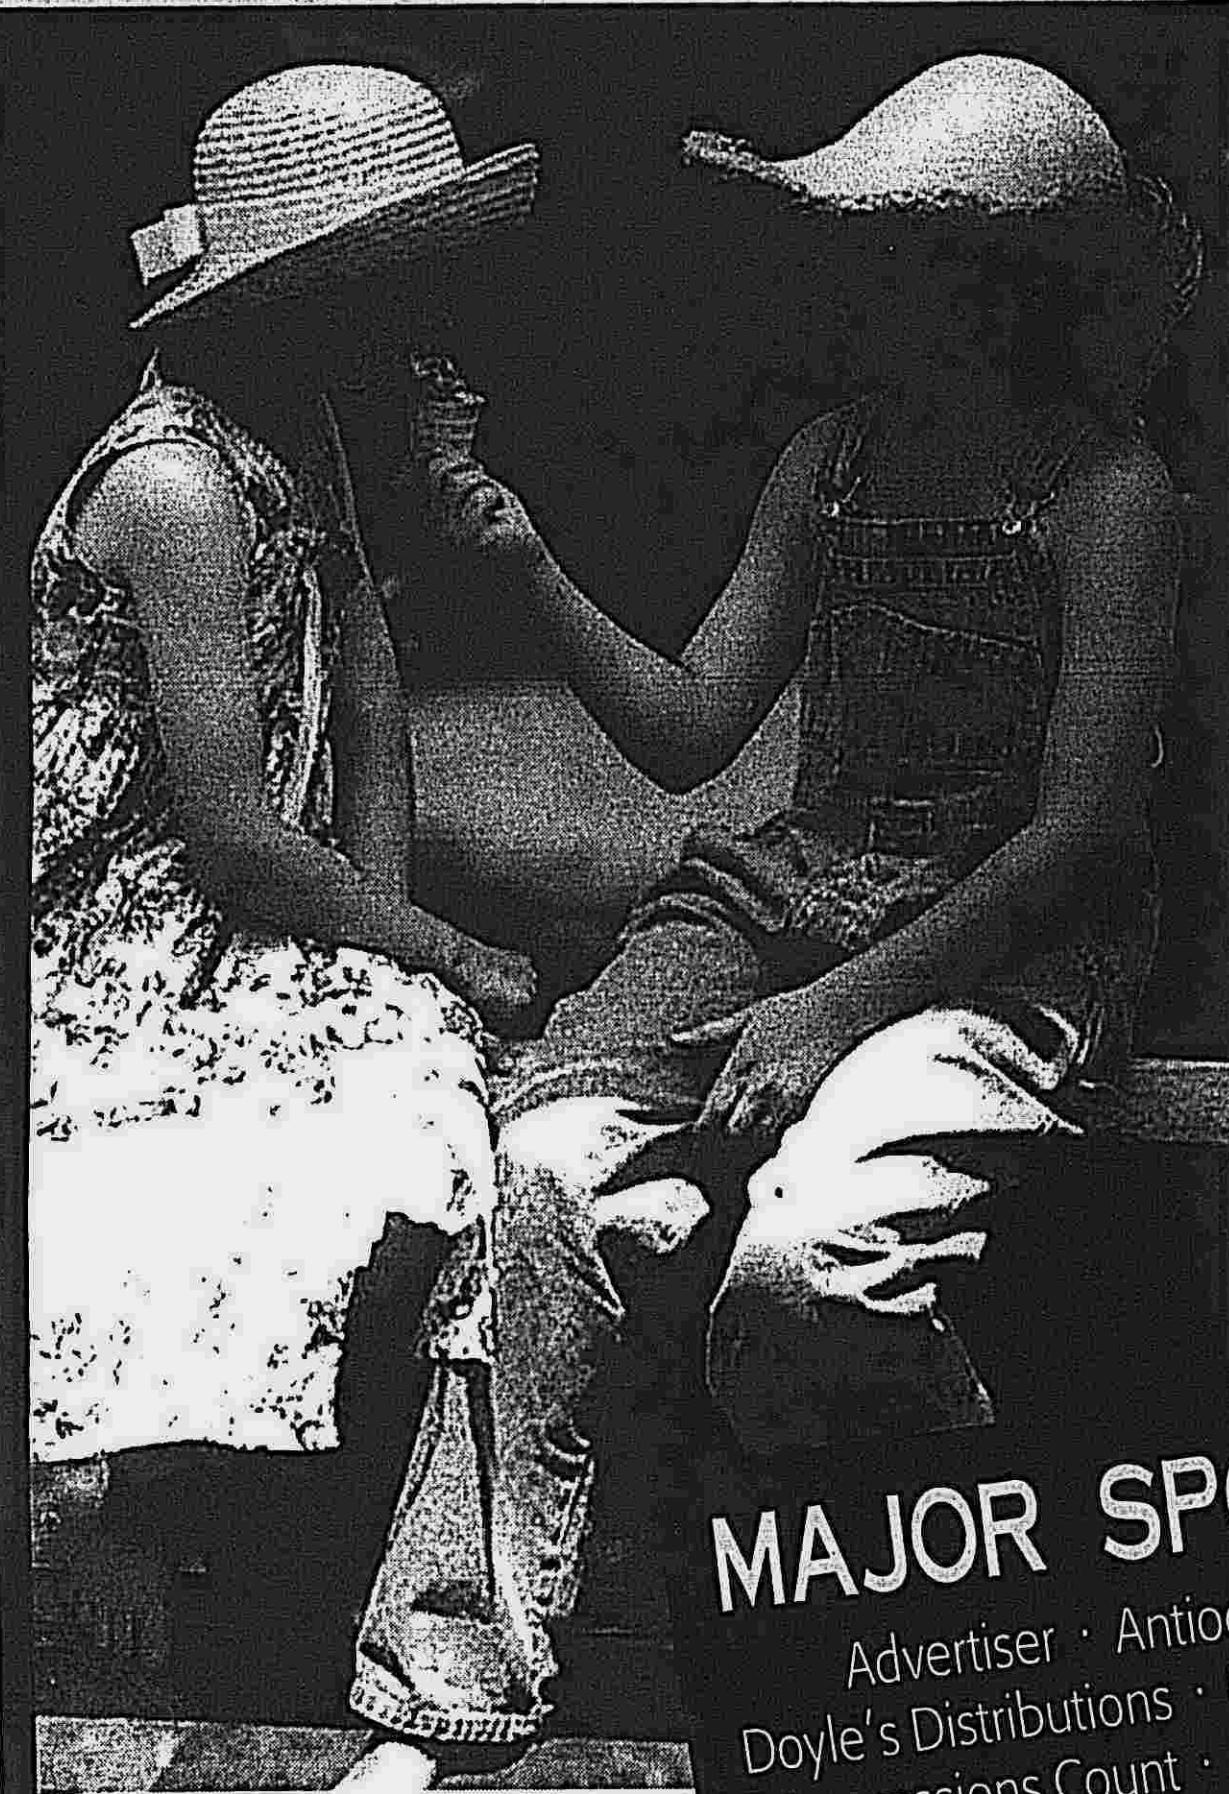

Taste of Antioch and the sidewalk sales of Maxwell Street Days started in downtown Antioch yesterday, Thursday, July 16 and continue through Sunday, July 19.

Restaurants from throughout the area converge on Toft Avenue to offer some of their menu items.

"We have a few new restaurants that are participating," Freeman said.

area for 27 years.

Maravela owns and operates Maravela's Inc., a banquet and catering business since 1982. He has over 40 years experience in the restaurant industry. He serves as a village trustee, an office to which he was elected.

Ruffin is a retired businessman. He is a past president of the Antioch Lions Club and a member of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry. He is widely known throughout the community for his active work as a volunteer on many community projects.

Deligiannis is president and treasurer of Maravela's, Inc. She has previously worked as a product analyst in the Electronic Services Department at the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. At her current business, she has been involved with office management, sales, bookkeeping, and payroll since 1992.

Kemp is an attorney with a private practice in Palatine. He has been active in the Palatine Kiwanis Club and the Palatine Chamber of Commerce.

Heddens was Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank of Des Plaines, a $500 million bank, when he retired in 1991. He had been elected president in 1981. Overall, he was associated with the bank for 32 years. He was very involved in the Des Plaines United Way, Rotary Club, and Chamber of Commerce. For the past 10 years, he has resided in Lake Villa Township.

The share offering for Great Northern Bank describes some of the anticipated services. Commercial and personal banking services will be offered to individuals, small and medium sized businesses, professional organizations, and government and public organization.

"The bank intends to concentrate consumer services and small businesses," according to the offering description.

"The Bank plans to offer a full range of short to intermediate term commercial and personal loans. The Bank intends to make personal loans directly to individuals for various other purposes, including purchases of automobiles, mobile homes, boats, and other recreational vehicles, home improvements, education and personal investments. The Bank anticipates that it will retain substantially all of such loans.

"Commercial loans will be made primarily to small and mid-sized businesses. These loans will be both secured and unsecured and will be available for general operating purposes, acquisition of fixed assets including real estate, purchases of equipment and machinery, financing of inventory and accounts receivable, as well as any other purpose considered appropriate."

The share offering document states that one of the risk factors is that the bank is organizing in an area which is highly competitive. There are 9 banks, credit unions, and thrifts in the area. Several are associated with large multi-bank holding companies. Other competition can be expected from "finance companies, insurance companies, mortgage companies, securities brokerage firms, money market mutual funds, loan production offices," and others.

It further notes that the Illinois banking industry is rapidly consolidating, and expects that "new, larger financial institutions will enter the Bank's proposed market area."

However, the share offering statement also said that the Great Northern Bank expects to be competitive because it intends to provide high quality, personalized service to its customers which customers generally find lacking at larger institutions.

Wolf said that he thought the response to the proposed bank had been good. It was "well received," he said. Businessmen in town are interested.

"A small community bank can focus on service. That's going to be our niche," John Wolf said.

METRA: Plans more trains service improvements at the meeting. Their preference is to upgrade North Central service with 22 weekday trains to improve peak-hour frequency and provide bi-hourly service during off-peak hours. A limited weekend schedule of rail service also was preferred.

The present service is five weekday inbound and outbound trains and no weekend service or service on six holidays. There is Pace bus service during midday and evening hours to supplement train service.

At the present time, the proposed level of service is hypothetical and was created by Metra to permit analysis.

Metra's improvements for service in Antioch do not include double-tracks in their proposals. One reason is that there is already double track construction underway along the line near Antioch, such as in the Lake Villa area.

A final alternative will be selected after public comment is received and evaluated.

construction of a pre-school to grade 6 school, with W.C. Petty, Oakland, and the Lower Grade Schools reconstructing to the same grade configuration, and Antioch Upper Grade School becoming a school for grades 7 and 8; and, (7) creation of an early learning center at W.C. Petty (preschool to kindergarten) with AUGS, Lower Grade, and Oakland becoming grades 1 through 5 and with new construction of a Junior High School for grades 6, 7, and 8.

Enrollment projections presented to the board state that it is unlikely that housing development in Antioch will halt. Therefore, the district must expect enrollment increases over the next several years. Enrollment increases are subject to many assumptions that are identified in the report.

The report said that, if all of the vacant properties in known developments are built over the next three years, there will be a 12.8 percent student enrollment increase over the next three years.

Traffic stalls Deercrest PUD decision

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Plan Commission and Zoning Board told Deercrest Planned Unit Development developers to return with more traffic impact information on Thursday, Sept. 10.

Approximately 40 area residents were present Thursday evening, July 9, to ask questions and express opinions about the proposed development at a three-hour hearing.

Deercrest is proposed for 234-acres with more than 500 dwelling units north of Savage Road at Route 173. The development will include areas of detached single family homes, detached zero lot line single family homes, and townhomes.

The developer presented "minor" engineering and statistical changes to their original proposal to the commissioners.

Follensbee compared the proposed residential development with what was permitted by village ordinance. He said, "The inclination here is not to seek a more intensive use." Instead, the proposed development reflects less intensive uses than permitted by Antioch ordinances.

Issues raised in a letter from the State of Illinois Department of Natural Resources had forced continuance of the January public hearing. "That letter has been mitigated substantially," said Follensbee.

"Their (most recent) letter speaks for itself. They have signed off," he said.

Near the end of the meeting, Follensbee asked that plan and zoning commissioners view the Deercrest PUD proposal as environmentally responsible. "We invite you to join us. We think we're on the high ground."

Comments related to traffic congestion and area traffic patterns, impacts on crop fields, tax increases, off-site drainage and tile issues, and spot-development.

Marvin Raymond is Vice-president of NEAT, Newport Environmental Action Team of Newport Township. He expressed concern about the fact that development was not contiguous to existing development. "There needs to be some thought to a slower process of growing out," he said.

Leslie Church represented homeowners of the Eagle Ridge subdivision. She said that the developer's presentation had addressed specific concerns but not concerns that had been raised by the audience at the previous hearing. "To me that shows a lack of consideration," Church said.

Lynn Doolittle stated that she and her husband, Tom, had not been contacted by the developer to resolve issues they raised in January.

Follensbee later said that Doolittle had not been contacted, yet, because drainage studies and tile studies were not completed.

Lynn Doolittle conveyed to plan and zoning board commissioners a copy of the Farm Nuisance-Suit Act. It protects agricultural operations from residents who subsequently dislike farms near their new homes. She asked that it become part of the PUD covenants.

Lions grill chicken, squad provides support for auction

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch's deep traditions of volunteer-based fund-raising and rescue squad service come together in ten days on Sunday, August 2 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. under the Williams Park Pavilion, rain or sunshine.

This 40th annual event serves up barbecued chicken and an afternoon's worth of auction goodies ranging from an Antioch-built Modern Home Products gas grill to an antique automobile to an imagination's worth of other donated treasures.

There are even four special Beanie Babies that the Antioch Woman's Club will raffle during the event.

The purpose of the auction is to raise funds for the Antioch Rescue Squad, provide a good time for community residents, and give people a chance to come together for a visit.

To feed the village people who turn out in strong measure, the Antioch Lions Club will host its 40th Annual Chicken Barbecue Picnic with the support of the Antioch Woman's Club and Antioch Junior Woman's Club.

The Antioch Woman's Club will sell raffle tickets to win Erin, Princess, Fortune, or Glory Beanie Babies at the auction and barbecue. They were donated by Eva's Hallmark and Flower Hut in Lindenhurst and the Lambs Farm in Libertyville.

Tickets will be for sale at Eva's shop until Aug. 1 and then at the auction and barbecue. The tickets sell for $5 and six cost $25. Fran Priory, of the woman's club, said, "The proceeds are going to community scholarships and local charities."

The traditional rescue squad auction is directed by professional Auctioneer Curley Nuerenberg. There is also a series of silent auctions throughout the afternoon. There will be a 50-50 raffle, games, races, and prizes for children, free swimming at the community pool, and fresh dessert for those so inclined.

"It's a fun day," said rescue squad member Steve Smouse who is organizing the auction.

"People will have a great time," promises Lion member Jack Miller who is organizing the chicken barbecue.

Organization is a major factor to the success of the auction and the barbecue. The rescue squad has been accepting auction items since Memorial Day and will accept them up to Friday, July 31.

"We've been working on this a couple of months," said Miller about the barbecue. The barbecue involves the sale of raffle tickets, the purchase of enough chicken halves to feed 33% of the village's estimated population, and sale of tickets for the barbecue luncheon.

"It's $7 this year with one dollar going to the William E. Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center," Miller said. The meal includes the half-chicken with cole-slaw, garlic bread, and potato chips. Also available are hot dogs and bratwursts as well as soft drinks and beer. For an extra dollar, people can add sweet corn to their plate and desserts are available for sale.

"We'll start cooking chickens between 6:30 and 7 a.m.," Miller said. "We have to burn the grills off and get them ready." To get such an early start, Lions will set up the site on Saturday.

Members of the Antioch Junior Women's Club also help. "They will help us in the serving line," said Miller. The Antioch Women's Club provides the desserts for sale. Both groups also assist with the treasure booth area and the series of silent auctions.

Tickets for the barbecue can be purchased from all Lions members, at Antioch Village Hall, First National Bank-Employee Owned, State Bank of The Lakes, First National Bank of Chicago, and Bank of Waukegan.

"Bring a couple of dollars to buy items from the rescue squad," Miller urges everyone.

Smouse agrees with that and points out that there are some interesting donations to the auction this year.

"We've got a number of pieces of nice furniture, antiques," he said. "We have at least one, and possibly two, antique vehicles on consignment from Volo antique auto auction." There will be a minimum bid for the vehicle(s).

Hannah's Home Accents donated three popular Beanie Babies™.

"These are three of the most sought after ones," Smouse said.

There is a riding lawnmower, guns for hunting as well as art prints.

"We never really know what all is going to be there," Smouse said.

"People here in town donate from their businesses," he said. This provides some pier areas with free rental, storage units, and restaurant meals.

In the past, there have been opportunities to purchase Lake County Fair grand champion livestock meat for the home freezer.

"These are usually real popular," Smouse said. In the past they have been donated by Strang Funeral Chapel, The State Bank of The Lakes, Thelen Sand and Gravel, and Pedersen GMC Truck.

The annual auction and barbecue are very important events for the rescue squad according to Steve Smouse.

"We are a volunteer rescue squad. We exist with no tax support," Smouse said. As a result, the money raised by the auction helps to maintain them as a modern professional rescue service. The Antioch Rescue Squad must meet State of Illinois standards and specifications for personnel and equipment.

"It's been 1993 since we purchased a vehicle," Smouse said. "We've got to start putting away money for that." Some equipment has to be replaced.

Auction donations can be picked up. Residents may call Village Hall (395-1000), Antioch Township (395-3378), Steve Smouse (395-4017), or any other rescue squad member to make arrangements.

Juvenile arsonist charged with home burning

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

A juvenile male, 16, of Lindenhurst, admitted to Lake County Sheriff's Investigators that on Oct. 31, 1997 he set fire to a Lindenhurst home under construction at that time.

The juvenile was charged in a juvenile delinquency referral with one count of aggravated arson and two counts of arson.

The arrest was the result of a joint investigation by the Lindenhurst Police Department and the Lake County Sheriff's Office. The arson admission by the juvenile was taken by Lake County Sheriff's officer John Lucas, the primary investigator of the case, during the afternoon on Tuesday, July 14.

The arson was committed on a home under construction that was three-quarters complete. It burned with such intensity that homes on either side of it were also significantly damaged.

"It's been an active investigation since October," said Chief of Police Jack McKeever. "The juvenile had been previously interrogated as part of the investigation.

"He confessed to sheriff's investigators that he, acting alone, was responsible for the fire," McKeever said.

"There is no indication that he had a personal knowledge of the property owners or the construction personnel," McKeever said.

The juvenile charged with the arson lived in the general vicinity of the burned homes, but not in the immediate area.

CBCH hosts golf outing fundraiser

Central Baptist Children's Home will host their 6th Annual Children First Blue Ribbon Golf Invitational Wednesday, July 22 at the Steeple Chase Golf Club in Mundelein.

Business sponsorship opportunities and golf openings are still available. Interested people can obtain further information at 847-356-2391.

Proceeds from the golf outing will benefit the agency's child abuse awareness and prevention programs. The blue ribbon is the national symbol of child abuse prevention. The Children's Home promoted awareness of the issue in April, Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Participants in the golf invitational will play 18-holes of golf with a cart, dinner, silent auction, and door prizes.

Some of this year's sponsors include Dletzgen Corporation, John Dawson and Associates, Allegiance Healthcare Corporation, Midway Games, Inc., and Hollister Incorporated.

Central Baptist Children's Home, a 103 year old child welfare agency, serves 8,000 families annually through community-based offices throughout the state. The agency has celebrated their 50th anniversary of serving their children in 1998. The agency undertakes events, such as the golf outing, to heighten awareness of the problem and to assist families with the responsibilities of parenthood.

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME YOU LEFT HOME?

Fox Lake's beautiful new water view offices are the alternative! Each office has a great view of Pistakee Lake. Close to restaurants, trains and stores! Introductory prices starting at $275/month.

Talking Health

by Dr. Scott Reiser, D.C.

GOLF, ANYONE?

Not with my bad back, you sigh, as you hang up your putter for what you think is the last time. But golf does not really have to be out of your life forever, even if you have back problems. Although the game involves a great deal of spinal twisting (the club starts on one shoulder and extends across the body to the other), breaking par can be on your agenda, if you observe some precautions.

First, you must faithfully do the back exercises that have been prescribed for you. To undertake any sport without proper stretching and strengthening is to court disaster. Second, be moderate. Driving causes the most trauma to the back and shoulders, so don't try to break distance records on every hole. Some doctors advise their golfing patients to practice hitting the ball 20 yards less than they ordinarily would—you may not win any trophies, but you'll be playing the game you love without injury or pain.

If maintaining your health and reducing stress is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. Our clinic is located at 314 Rollins Road, Round Lake Beach (Eagle Creek Plaza - corner of Cedar Lake and Rollins Roads.)

Indy racer Knapp shares view from cockpit

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Sticky tires, gravity, internal organs, aerodynamics, and turning left at incredible speeds are part of the Indianapolis 500 experience.

However, Indianapolis 500 Rookie of the Year Steve Knapp trained for his high-performance experience on a bicycle.

Antioch businessman Knapp shared his view from his driver's seat of the 1998 Memorial Day race with Antioch Rotary Club members Thursday, July 9 at a noon luncheon. Knapp owns Elite Engines in Antioch.

"The speed there is incredible. The crowd is awesome," he said. "The cars are a lot of fun. They give you a lot of confidence."

His car was 1,500 pounds and had 750 horsepower. Because of the aerodynamics of the body design and the sticky quality of the tires once they heat up to 240 degrees Fahrenheit, Knapp said that at 140 miles per hour, the vehicle he drove would have stuck to a ceiling had the curves banked overhead. The car is designed to stay attached to the track.

"At 200 mph, you're doing a football field a second," he said. That speed was sufficient to move him from position 23 at the start of the race to his third place position when it was over.

"I just put my foot down and started passing cars," Knapp said of his race strategy. Drivers only lift their foot in the corners of the oval track.

Knapp said that driving a high-speed vehicle is a physically demanding sport. In the corners, the pressure on the body is three times the force of gravity. To help hold the body steady in those conditions, the seats are specially molded to fit the driver. As the corners are turned, it is not the driver who moves in response to the gravity forces but rather the internal organs.

Another sense that suffers in the hours-long race is hearing. "When you listen to one of those engines for three-and-a-half-hours, you go deaf," he said. The result was that when he finished the race and climbed from the car, he could not hear the cheering and was unaware of what he had achieved. Only gradually did his hearing come back and he realized that people were cheering.

ing his third place finish.

"These things are made to turn left," he said of the vehicle's steering design. The result is that on the straightaway, the driver has to turn the car to the right to go straight.

"The cars are actually insured," Knapp told the Rotarians. The premium is $50,000 and there is a $40,000 deductible. The cars on the track are worth about $500,000 and have $100,000 engines.

As a third place finisher, Knapp won $338,750 in total awards. He was pleased that he won that because he owed a great deal of money to other investors. As rookie of the year, he also acquired another $10,000 from award sponsor BancOne.

At this point in his career, he now has offers from four other teams to be their driver. He is evaluating the offers. Eventually he expects that he will be racing at Indianapolis again, and may do NASCAR and Winston Cup races.

The race itself is more mental than physical, he said. However, in terms of physical demands, cardiovascular strength is a key area.

"When I'm racing, (my heart is) averaging 180 (beats)." To help him achieve the strength he needs for that level of impact, he rides his bicycle on the hills of the Salem, Wis. landscape where he lives.

Knapp showed a brief videotape of his qualifying race and the awards presentation dinner after the race. At that time, he said that his race had been dedicated to Jerry Knapp, his father who died of cancer in 1987.

Eternity featured in Christian production

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Everyday decisions lead to eternity. A mid-August Christian Life Fellowship Church play production considers the options.

The original production by Pastor Brian Grow is titled "The Choice of Eternity." It will be presented by members of the congregation each night on Aug. 19, 20, and 21.

The church doors open at 6 p.m. The play is staged from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

"We're portraying real life, everyday experiences," Grow said. He hopes that people who watch the play will say to themselves, "I know what that is like" or "I know what that experience is about."

"This is an evangelism outreach," Grow said. It is designed to appeal to people who are not familiar with any church or who do not know the Lord in a personal way.

"This is open for everybody to walk-in off the street," he said. "We really want to outreach to the people in our community."

After the production each evening, there will be an opportunity for people to commit themselves to Christ. There will also be refreshments.

Grow said the production takes the form of two teenage girls talking about eternity and what happens when people die. He said that the brochure to promote the production and outreach states: "Come experience that there is more life than this life alone."

Christian Life Fellowship Church is a quarter-mile north of Route 173 on Deep Lake Road. Further information is available by telephone at 847-395-8572.

and use shoe boxes for furniture—kind of a no-brainer. Kids of today have a hard time looking at an empty shoe box and see anything other than Nike or Reebok.

These folks, with their out of sorts thinking, felt little girls all over were pining to have Barbie's svelte figure. It seems to me as kids playing with our Barbie dolls we never gave thought to obtaining her body, we just complained how hard it was to get those little outfits over all the appropriate bumps—no easy task. Nowadays kids are bombarded with Veterinarian Barbie, Singer Barbie, Astronaut Barbie, Dentist Barbie, Workout Barbie and so on and so on.

As youth we had three, maybe four Barbie's and we managed to turn those dolls into anything we wanted without all the added hoopla and accessories. We never complained about not being slim enough or busty enough—we were young girls playing make believe with dolls.

Has modern day society taken that one more pleasure out of childhood? Do kids no longer have the ingenuity to play school unless they have teacher Barbie and her battery-operated talking chalkboard, the little desks and two plastic pupils how sit in those desks? We were much more creative. We use to requisition our doll house residents to be the students, because they were smaller, and use shoe boxes for furniture—kind of a no-brainer. Kids of today have a hard time looking at an empty shoe box and see anything other than Nike or Reebok.

And what's with all this hair

Barbie now has? Is that supposed to be like Valley-girl Barbie. These long flowing locks that get snarled and tangled beyond belief. Those rats nest are not match for the chintzy plastic brush that comes along with the doll no matter how much de-tangler you spray on the blonde tresses.

The brush is usually a light or dark shade of pink and absolutely useless in its made for mission, but, like those goofy shoes that never stay on, it's always taped inside the box of a new Barbie, just waiting to wind up between the couch cushions. And you know, if you take off all the frilly dresses or career-appointed outfits and remove all the career appropriate accessories, and line all those perfectly manicured dolls side by side, you can almost picture days gone by when we had those same dolls, and a whole lot more imagination.

And so goes another, "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

The event, sponsored by the Village of Round Lake Beach and the Round Lake Park District, will begin at 9:30 a.m. and end around 2:00 p.m.

The event is centered around kids and will feature a fishing safety seminar, bass boat rides, a fishing derby, the Illinois B.A.S.S. Federation Casting Kids Contest and prizes.

"We're a group of guys who are serious fishermen," said Eriksen. "We're not a big club—we've got about 15 guys—but we wanted to do something for the kids."

"Last year we had such success in Round Lake, that we wanted to do it again."

The event is free and bait will be supplied to all participants, but kids should bring their own live release bucket.

Fishing Should Be Fun will be a "fun for the whole family" event, and will receive coverage in Lakeland Newspapers' 11 editions—including photos.

For more information, or to register for the event, call the Round Lake Park District at 546-8558.

Libertyville legion grabs top seed

Gurnee legion falls just short of No. 1 seed in Dist. 10

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Much was at stake as Gurnee and Libertyville clashed for the top spot in District 10 American Legion play and confidence going into the post-season tournament.

Libertyville came away with an 8-6 win thanks to timely hitting and defense. Gurnee settled for the second seed in the tournament, but secured a first-round home game.

Mike Kaywood, who did not play when Gurnee won earlier, was the spark on offense for the Bandits. His solo home run in the fourth inning gave the home team a 6-5 lead. Kaywood, who starred at Carmel High this spring, hit another dinger in the sixth inning for a three-run cushion. Mike Ward was on base ahead of the second homer.

"He was on Norwood's team, but he was not getting the playing time he deserved, so he came over here a couple of weeks ago," said Libertyville coach Scot McKnight of Kaywood..

Libertyville (9-3 Dist. 10) won for the fifth straight time. Gurnee battled until the final inning until an around-the-horn double play ended its hope.

Gurnee led 3-0 early, but Libertyville responded with a five-run first inning. Gurnee tied the game at 5, but it was Libertyville which executed in crunch time.

Gurnee was seeing double in the first inning as Nate Hadsell, Chris Groth and Jake Hanson doubled and Reggie Hughes had a sacrifice for a RBI. Hadsell also had an RBI in the fourth inning.

Lance Johnson tied the game with a home run in the second inning and doubled.

Jerry McMahon (4-3) was credited with the win on the mound in a complete game for Libertyville.

"He battled well. He had a lot of ground-ball and pop-up outs," said McKnight.

McKnight was pleased with all aspects of the team heading into the tournament, which begins July 16 in a double elimination format.

"It shows a lot to come back from a 3-0 deficit against a quality pitcher like Horner. We have 10 solid hitters and our pitching is pretty deep. Our defense has improved significantly over the summer, and I feel we have a good chance in the tournament this year," said McKnight.

Gurnee coach Rick Hill was also upbeat despite the loss.

"It would have been nice to win it, but the kids hit the ball well. We are looking forward to the tournament," said Hill.

Libertyville set up the clash for first place with a 7-6 win over Zion behind Bill Oakley. Mark Harmon led the offense with a 3-3, four-RBI game. Luke McKnight had a home run and McMahon added two hits.

Libertyville (19-9 overall) downed Barrington 9-4 as Tom Rowland improved to 3-0 on the mound. Libertyville easily swept Waukegan, 11-1 and 12-2.

Gurnee (11-12 overall) beat Woodstock 11-1 behind Savage's pitching but lost to Crystal Lake 13-8.

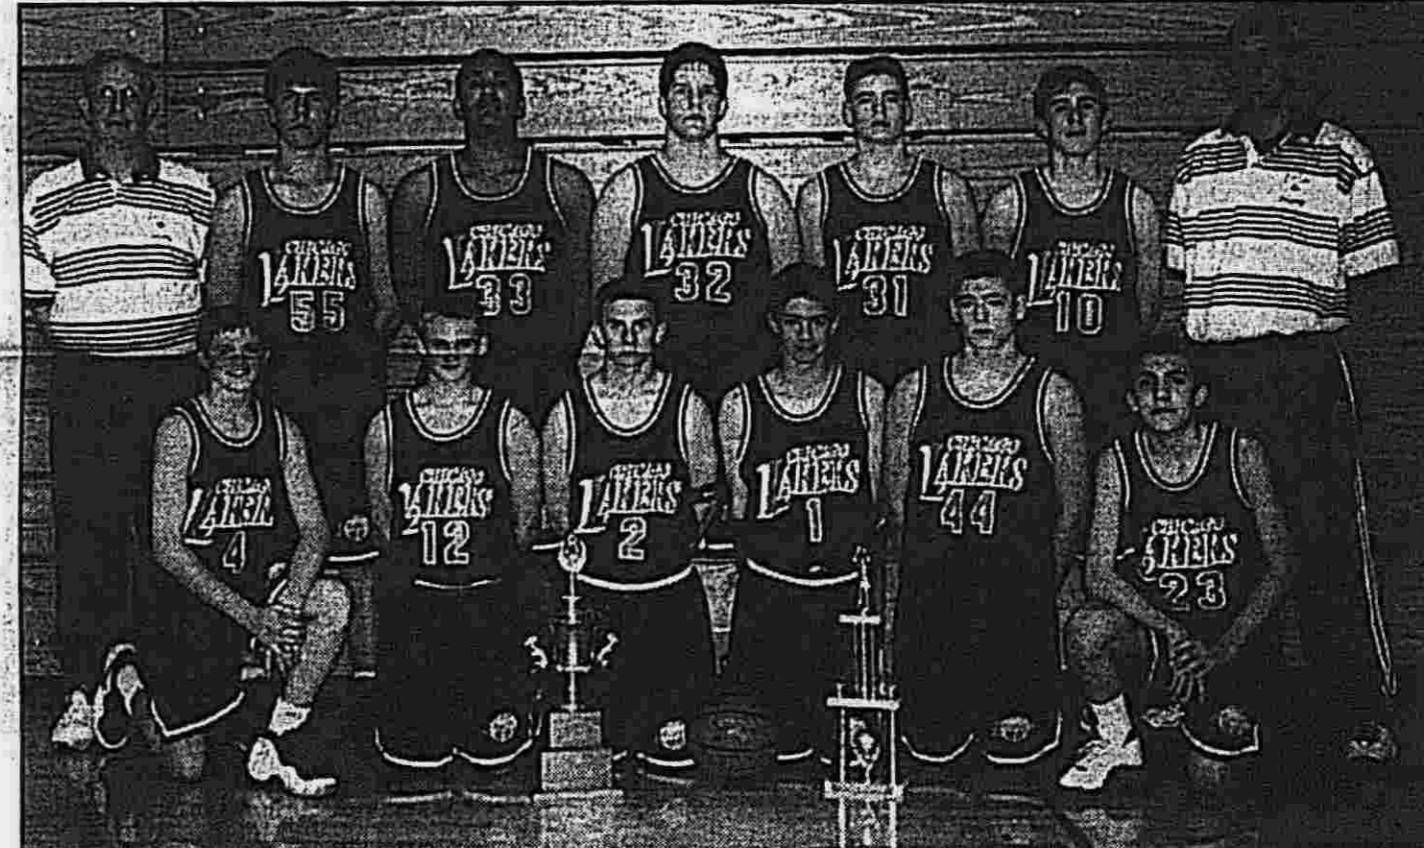

Lakers youth basketball celebrates 30th anniversary

Thirty years ago—July 1, 1968—The Lakers Youth Basketball Program was formed in Palatine by its founder and current director Denny Porter. Porter and several others wanted to provide a youth basketball program for kids in the sixth through eighth grades that would offer extra basketball competition against teams from other areas of Illinois and surrounding states. "We wanted our players to experience playing a high level of basketball," noted Porter. Laker teams traveled to the Inner City of Chicago, Detroit, and Milwaukee as well as other "hotbeds" of basketball. Early Laker coaches besides Porter included Rolling Meadows American Legion baseball manager Tony Stompanato and North Chicago High School coach Reggie Johnson. Since 1980, the Laker program has been based out of Lake County.

Since 1968, many youths—both boys and girls—have played in the Laker program. Most of these kids went on to outstanding high school and college careers. During the 30 year history teams played at the sixth, seventh, and eighth grade levels, both boys and girls teams. Coach Lou Bissa of Fox Lake was instrumental in adding the Lady Lakers in the 70s.

The Laker teams were considered all-star travel teams, since kids from all over Lake County tried out for one of the teams.

Stompanato coached the 1974 Laker seventh grade boys to their first National Championship in Indianapolis, Ind. In total, Laker teams have won seven National Championships and 45 state and regional titles. The program has participated in all National Youth Basketball Associations, from AAU (Amateur Athletic Association), YBOA (Youth Basketball of America), BCI (Basketball Congress International), NYBA (National Youth Basketball Association),

Not in order: Mike Zwirzdas, Joe Mariani, Jake Molgaard, Tony Moyano, Ricardo Estrada, Justin Mehaffey, Tom Purcell, Jesse Sanchez, Drew Jacobsen, Jermaline Cark, Pete Jacobsen, Chris Zimmerman, head coach: Denny Porter, assistants: Dick Zwirzdas, Robin Jacobsen.

AYBT (American Youth Basketball Tour) and NAYB (North American Youth Basketball).

The program has received coaching assistance from several area high school coaches. Rolling Meadows High School coach Dave Brown coached the 1997 Laker eighth grade to a third place finish last year at the NAYB Nationals. Reggie Johnson of North Chicago High School won the YBOA National 13 year old Title in 1992 in Orlando, Fla. Porter, who currently resides in Antioch, coached Laker teams to championships in the 80s. Dr. Morris Osborne, former coach of Nichols State and Syracuse University coached in the Laker program.

The list of present and former Laker greats reads like a who's who of basketball standouts in the Lake County area. Former players make up high school conference all star teams from conferences like the North Suburban, Central Suburban, former Northwest Suburban Conference and Catholic League. More recently, Waukegan High School standout Dominique Jones was a member and first team All American of the 1992 Laker sixth grade National Champion team. Highland Park High School guard Seth Harris also was a member of that championship team. Deerfield High School all state and Lake County's all time leading scorer played for the Lakers. Grayslake standout Dave Mendralla played for the Laker sixth, seventh and eighth grade teams. The list of standout performers is endless.

This year three Laker teams will compete in National Tournament play. The Laker eighth grade boys team won regional competition in the NAYB and BCI. The Laker ninth and 10th grade team will compete in the NAYB Nationals as will The Lady Lakers seventh grade girls team.

Through all 30 years, Porter has been actively involved a coach, director, administrator, and president. "I have enjoyed every minute and like to see kids go on to high school and college careers," said Porter. "I look forward to many more years with this program," he added. Porter has also been coaching youth football for 30 years. His Antioch Light-weight team has a current 54 straight game winning streak and five straight conference titles. Before that, he founded and coached the Buffalo Grove Bills Lightweights to 123 successive wins and 12 straight conference titles.

Laker Grade 8 highlights

The Lakers Grade 8 boys team have already played in over 60 games since March. During the past four months, the eighth graders have competed in 12 tournaments. They qualified for the National BCI Tournament in Phoenix, Arizona at the midwest regionals in Menomonie, Wis. in May. They won the NAYB regional at McHenry and will compete at National tournaments in Rolling Meadows and Cleveland, Ohio at the end of July. The team has placed in 10 of 12 tournaments and is averaging over 50 points per game, while holding opponents to an average of 36 points scored. Their current record is 46-18 and expect to play 25 more

Typhoon goes 2-1 in Watermelon tourney

The Lindenhurst Typhoon (boys U-10, NISL, Bronze Division) traveled west to Rockford for the Watermelon Tournament. The Typhoon came away with a 2-1 record after defeating the Dorian Attack and the Moline Wolves, but losing a tough match to the N.W. Indiana United Flames. The duties in the nets for the Typhoon were shared throughout the tournament by Kyle Kozuch and Darren Nordstrom who played consistently strong and aggressive regardless of the score.

In the first game the Typhoon played the Dorian Attack and won 2-1. The Typhoon constantly pressed the ball forward, but the first half ended scoreless for both teams. In the second half the surge of Typhoon players virtually carried the ball into the goal two times as midfielder Alex McKenzie's shot rebounded off the post and forward Jason Moxley was there put the ball in the net. The Attack came back and scored to tie the game on a breakaway run at the Typhoon goalie. To take the lead Typhoon midfielder Ian Hunter placed a beautiful corner kick in front of the Attack goal and in the ensuing commotion Typhoon forward Ryan Knapp headed the ball past the Attack goalie.

In the second game the Typhoon played a poised N.W. Indiana team, the United Flames, and lost 2-0. The Typhoon had their chances to score, but were unable to place many shots on goal as the Flames defense was particularly successful at taking the ball to the outside and playing it up the line. The Typhoon found themselves mostly on the defensive and credit goes to sweepers Brett Carlson and Eric Voight for keeping the Flames in check.

In the third game the Typhoon put on a scoring show as they defeated the Moline Wolves 4-0. Typhoon midfielder Alex McKenzie got the Typhoon off to quick start as he scored unassisted in the first few minutes of play. Shortly thereafter forward Ian Hunter took a pass from McKenzie and dribbled through several players to shoot and score. In the second half Eric Voight sent the ball through to forward Dany Alvarez who shot easily by the Wolves goalie. The final Typhoon goal was scored in a sea of players in front of the Wolves goal as Typhoon forward Kyle Kozuch alertly took a rebound shot and headed the ball cleanly into the net.

The Typhoon end their U-10 season with an overall record in league play of 14-3-2 and great tournament experience to take with them into the next season. Kudos to coaches Jeff McKenzie and Greg Kozuch for taking the time to help this group of players develop into a first class team.

Lake Villa Lightning near state tournament selection

The Lake Villa Lightning, Lake Villa Township Baseball's 13-year-old Traveling Baseball team, is closing in on another appearance at the AABC State Tournament. After posting recent victories against Grayslake 10-9, Genoa City 16-5, and Gurnee 7-3, the Lightning (31-13-1) have now won eight of their last nine against Mike's Memorial league Pony "A" opponents and are now (13-6) in league play. A post-season appearance would mark the team's fourth straight at the state tournament.

The game against Grayslake started fast and furious as each team took advantage of walks and errors early on and after just two innings 16 runs had scored with Lake Villa leading 9-7. The game settled down, however, and good pitching on both sides only allowed three more runs the rest of the way. Grayslake had tied the score at 9 in the top of the 4th inning but Sean Walker's 5th inning hit scored C.J. Walleck from 2nd base in the bottom of the 5th for the game winner. Walker, who had 2 hits and 4 RBI's in the game, also got the victory in relief with 3 innings of 1 hit ball which included 5 strikeouts and no walks. Brian Blanas also contributed a hit, run, stolen base, and 2 RBI's as LV added 6 hits to the 10 free passes to generate enough offense for the win. Others adding to the offense were Matt Lukemeyer (hit, run, rbi), Nick Blocker (hit, run), Scott Coles (hit), Kyle Robinson (2 runs) and Walleck with 2 runs scored.

In the game at Genoa City, the Lightning broke open 4-4 game with a 4 run 4th inning and followed that with an 8 run 5th. Sean Walker got the win with 5 innings of work, 7 K's and 2 walks. He also drove in 2 with a 5th inning double. Nick Blocker and Brad Hoogerhyde each got two hits with Hoogerhyde driving in 3 runs and Blocker scoring twice on the night. Others adding offense included Scott Wold (2 hits, rbi), Chad Stroup (double, run, 2 rbi), C.J. Walleck (hit, run, rbi), Matt Poleck (hit, 2 runs, rbi), and Kyle Robinson (hit, run, rbi).

Lake Villa won for the second time this season against Gurnee with Chad Stroup earning the victory with 4 1/3 solid innings of work. Stroup was also one of the leaders on offense with a hit and pair of RBI's.

The Lake Villa Lightning will close out their league schedule with anticipated tough games against Antioch, McHenry, and Lake Villa's 14 year old Pony "A" team. The AABC State Tournament starts on July 23.

forward Pete Jacobsen has 209. Center Chris Zimmerman is the team's top rebounder and the Lakers have received solid defensive performances in particular from guards Justin Mehaffey and Jesse Sanchez.

This eighth grade team has both speed and size to match up with anyone. The Lakers could start a line-up of all players above six feet that would consist of center Tom Purcell 6 foot, 6 inch forwards, Jermaine Cark and Chris Zimmerman 6 foot, 3 inch each and a pair of six foot guards.

Previous Laker eighth grade teams won national championships in 1982, 1988 and 1996. This year's team is capable of another national championship.

I used to think a hospital was a scary place—

Until Mom took me to Victory.

Kindness— The Victory Difference

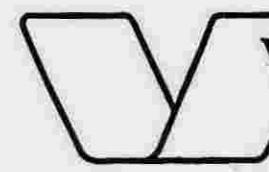

When my seven-year old had to go to the hospital for tests, she was a little nervous and so was I.

Some hospitals can be very impersonal. Would the people at Victory take the time to make my daughter comfortable? Could I ask all of my questions without feeling rushed?

Our experience at Victory couldn't have been better. Everyone was kind and courteous. They helped Lisa relax by getting her to talk about the things she likes to do. Then they explained her test in words she could understand. I felt so relieved.

As a leading medical provider, Victory knows the value of human kindness. Friendly, competent healthcare professionals, dedicated employees and volunteers—working together to treat patients with respect and appreciation for their individual needs. Maybe that's why so many Lake County residents won't go anywhere else for medical care.

Choose Victory. You'll recognize the difference.

Headsville Roll

Antioch craftsman makes art of loose heads

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Heads do roll. At least, they still do in Antioch and Hollywood and around the world.

People can still buy loose heads with faces on them at the 16th Century home of Headsville Roll, if desired.

The fired ceramic heads and faces are made by Antioch artist Eric A. Ott. His artwork brings forth smiles and a worldwide reputation for the ceramics he has created and sells with his partner, Steve Batson, of Salem, Wis.

Batson manages the duo's Headsville Roll shop located in its temporary home at the Bristol Renaissance Fair. The shop is located at the fair on Guildhall Row, South. They offer whimsical, delightful clay creations with faces on them.

"Everything that Steve and I do has faces and heads," Ott said. "We tease everybody. Everybody asks 'Why faces? Why faces?' And then

*'The Pope has some of these.
I sent them to him for his birthday'*

Eric Ott
Artisan

we go: 'we started with elbows and we tried feet and ended up with faces'."

"We still enjoy it," he said about their art work.

Ott continues to develop his talent as an artist working with ceramics, but he has not moved too far from his roots, the faces. The large works he does now include neon and plumbing parts he rescues from a dumpster next door at Colette and Ano Plumbing, Inc. near his studio in Antioch.

Sale of the face-bearing artwork occurs in Wisconsin galleries as well as at the renaissance fair. Their popularity is good and getting better. 'Faaantaastic!' some would say. 'Phantasm!' those in the know would say.

People can buy ceramic cups of all sizes with faces on the sides at the booth Ott and Batson have at the renaissance fair. They also are sold at Wych Wolde (just south of Wizard's Town Tap and Grill) in Salem and at galleries in other more distant Wisconsin cities.

"The closest one is Art Independent in Lake Geneva, which is a neat gallery up there," Ott said.

Ott and Batson have specialty knobs for drawers with faces too. "Bob the knob" and "Randal the handle" are two crowd pleasers.

However, another small crowd pleaser was the movie "Phantasm." The official movie web site says that "Phantasm IV" will be out this October. For people who missed the first three phases of the story, suffice it to say that it is a sci-fi classic complete

Headsville Roll proprietor Eric Ott, who creates artwork featuring faces, shows off his artistry in his Antioch studio. Ott has sent face gifts to such famous people as Pope John Paul II. He also produces memorabilia which harkens back to cult movie classic "Phantasm." —Photo by Sandy Bressner with memorable lines, vivid actors, and the incredible imagery of a flying killer, silver ball with a Swiss Army knife's tool-kit personality.

"A friend of mine is in the horror movie "Phantasm," Ott said. "It's a real obscure film. I just cast (Reggie Bannister's) face, and I'm incorporating his face into big clocks and things."

Ott now uses the face mold to create Reggie replicas for very elaborate clocks. With these elements, he can now make large sculptural pieces.

"We were calling it 'antiques of tomorrow.' They look old and new at the same time, kind of retro."

Some of it looks like it could have been made many, many years ago, but they have modern elements to it," Ott said.

The modern elements would be the tape recorded statements from "Phantasm" that come out of the clock instead of chimes. The retro look comes from the neon outlines. The clock face is from the mold of Reggie Bannister's face. The copper tubing is from the dumpster that Reed Ano lets Ott raid. Put it together and the inner-artist of Ott creates a truly amazing clock that issues statements, artistic and recorded.

HEADSVILLE: Hand made items, ceramic artist keeps the heads rolling

The mind that creates these materials has been around Antioch for 15 years. Many people know Ott also as a collector, some would say an accumulator, of Hollywood memorabilia and 16 mm films.

"With the studio and the art, I like to surround myself with things that I enjoy. It's kind of inspirational to have things around that you like when you are trying to create."

"I'm kind of a movie buff. I do all the Hollywood collectible shows," Otto said. "My wife (Linda) and I have just two rules. If I'm going to buy something, I have to sell something first. And, the number two rule is: if I can't lift it, I can't buy it."

Then he said, "You get the adrenaline going; you can lift quite a bit."

"I used to collect barber chairs. That was when I was a little younger. I used to be able to lift a barber chair. It's cheaper than a health club."

Ott was collecting and accumulating at a very young age—stamps, trading cards, comic books, coins, a box of rocks. "I try to get my sons (Alex, 6, and Riley, 3) to appreciate the stamps and things, but they're into Ninja Turtles and whatever. They're not into any of the classics."

And, inevitably, what did he do with the stuff Mom threw away, as every mother must?

"Everytime my mother would throw something away, I'd go out and get it and put it back. Now I'm selling the things that I had as a kid and doing very well."

The faces he sells with partner Steve Batson at the renaissance fair have brought him fame and fun. "They're all around the world now," he said. He sells gifts of small faces that are the size of quarters. "Robert Staack has some of these. Yoko has some of these. Brook Shields has some. Melissa Etheridge," he said.

"The Pope has some of these," Ott said. "I sent them to him for his birthday. Vincent Price had a lot of my things."

His lawn sales make room for new, inspiring, and entertaining collectibles. "You never really own anything. You just kind of rent it for awhile."

What is he selling these days? There are John Lennon condoms from Tokyo. Jackie Gleason swizzle sticks, a Dukes of Hazard matchbox car, and film canisters also lurk upon the tables.

"For buying and selling, I don't really get into anything unless I really like it. That way, you've got to have the interest in it anyway. If it doesn't sell, it goes back up on the shelf. A lot of things I don't buy to resell. They're just fun to have."

His faces are fun to have. The Renaissance Fair has one of the closest supplies of his cups and art works with faces.

Face it. Now, you need to collect one and Batson and Ott are just two artisans ready to make those faces available to anyone who walks into their shop at the Bristol Renaissance Fair, opened weekends through Aug. 23.

HOROSCOPEAries – March 21/April 20

Be aggressive when it comes to something that you want early in the week, Aries. No one is going to hand it to you. You have to show that you really want it. A loved one turns to you in a time of need. Be supportive, and try to help. However, tell him or her how you truly feel about the situation.

Taurus – April 21/May 21

An unexpected windfall has people knocking on your door this week. Don't try to help others until you help yourself. You have a lot going on, and this money can make some things a little easier. An acquaintance wants to start a relationship with you. Think about your feelings before answering him or her.

Gemini – May 22/June 21

A crisis at work has co-workers on edge. Don't get upset. Remain calm, and try to find a way to help the situation. The answer is right in front of you. That special someone has a surprise for you. Let him or her know how much you appreciate it. Aries plays an important role on Wednesday.

Cancer – June 22/July 22

A disagreement with a loved one turns into a family feud. Before you add fuel to the fire, think about what you really want to happen. You don't want everyone angry with each other, so try to calm things down. If you stay in control, you can get others to listen to you. A close friend offers you constructive criticism. Listen to him or her.

Leo – July 23/August 23

Before you jump to conclusions about a difficult situation, find out the facts. There is more going on than you know about. If you overreact, you're just going to make yourself look foolish. You meet an intriguing person late in the week. Be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't be too critical of yourself early in the week, Virgo. You have nothing to do with a business dispute. Instead of beating yourself up, try to help the situation. Your logical argument can get those involved to resolve things. A close friend needs romantic advice.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23

It's a good thing that you like people, because you have to deal with a lot of them this week. Your professional life and your personal plans put you right in the middle of some important discussions. Stay focused, and you can make valuable contributions.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22

Don't fly off the handle when you hear distressing news late in the week. People are counting on you to be strong. Stay calm, and you can work things out. An old friend wants to see you. Say yes, because you really should hear what he or she has to say. Cancer plays a key role.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21

A chance occurrence early in the week makes you remember an event from long ago. Enjoy the memories, but don't live in the past. Look toward the future. A loved one asks for your help with a family problem. Be supportive. Capricorn plays an important role during the weekend.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20

That special someone calls it quits. While you're upset, try to move on. He or she really wasn't the right person for you, and deep down inside, you know that. A close friend has good news that he or she wants to share with you. Help him or her celebrate in style.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18

Even though it may feel like it, you're not alone this week, Aquarius. Your friends and loved ones are there for you. Open up to them, because they want to help you solve your problems. A close family friend will have the best advice for you. You meet an interesting person late in the week. Don't be shy.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20

You have a lot going for you, Pisces—don't let it slip away by being too cavalier. Go after what you want. A loved one asks for your advice about a romantic relationship. Don't be too shy to tell him or her what you really think. Your honesty is needed.

Tipping While Traveling

by JIM WARNKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

The most common question regarding the custom of tipping for services on a cruise ship is, who and how much should be tipped?

There's no problem in getting help with this one. Most cruise lines provide suggestions regarding tipping (I personally resent being told by a service establishment what to tip their employees, but here it is). Cabin stewards generally are tipped $2.50 per day, and waiters get the same. The busboy would get $1.25 per day. The aforementioned are given the last day of the cruise.

Deck stewards, bar waiters and bellboys are usually given 15 percent at the time of service.

Let's get back to land and the world of hotels. A concierge (the guy who gets the taxi, theatre tickets, etc.) would get $1 per day depending on services rendered. Baggage porters should get 50 cents per bag, but not less than $1.

Maids should get anywhere between 50 cents and $1 per day, depending how much of a mess your room was after the party. The person who gives you the towel in the restroom expects 25 cents.

If taking a tour, the guide will expect something in his hand when he offers to shake yours while the bus is unloading. Fifty cents to $1 will make him happy. At the end of the tour, the bus driver is usually given 50 cents a day.

In most countries in Europe, the tip is added to the bill in restaurants and hotels. It's called a service charge. In these cases, it is customary to tip only the next guinea, mark, etc. (this is never more than 70 or 80 cents). In France and Italy, you may find as much as 30 percent added to your bill for service charges. In Spain, on the other hand, as little as five percent may be added, with nothing more expected.

When traveling abroad, always look at your bills to see if a tip has been added. If in doubt, ask.

'The Meeting'

Bowen Park Theatre Company will hold auditions for Jeff Stetson's play "The Meeting" on Dec. 5 and 6 from 1-4 p.m. at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, 39 Jack Benny Dr., just off N. Sheridan Rd., in Waukegan. Call backs are scheduled from Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. "The Meeting" will be directed by guest director Debrah Neal.

Needed are three black male actors to portray Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Malcolm X, and Rashad, Malcolm X's bodyguard. Production dates are Feb. 5, 6, 12, 13 at 8 p.m. and Feb. 7 and 14 at 3 p.m. There is a possibility of an additional run out performance.

"The Meeting" is about a fictitious meeting between the two great civil rights activists, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and Malcolm X. It is poignant, witty, sometimes humorous, and catches the spirits of these two historic figures. Because the length of the play is just over one hour, additional materials will be used by the actors before the actual play.

Auditions will be by appointment only and actors are asked to call 847-360-4741 to set a time for their individual audition. Bowen Park Theatre Company is a professional, non-union, non-equity company. There is pay.

SPECIAL EVENTS

CLC presents international art

Twenty-two paintings by artists from France, England and the United States are featured in the College of Lake County's first international exhibit, open through Aug. 14 in the Community Gallery of Art.

The artists represented in the show studied under Patrick Betaudier, a master painter and professor at "The Atelier Neo Medici," a classical painting studio founded and directed by Betaudier. Most of the paintings in the show have been brought to the United States from "The Atelier," which is located in Montlaurquin, a 13th century medieval town in southwest France.

Betaudier uses a rare painting method known as "technique mixte," which combines tempera emulsion and oil glazes to achieve an intricate level of detail and vivid color. The technique, which demands expert craftsmanship, has been the core of Betaudier's teaching for more than 20 years.

The exhibit includes four French, one English and eight American artists as well as painting by Betaudier. Among the American artists are Steve Jones, CLC's curator, and Nancy Whitmore Smith, a CLC graduate.

Betaudier will demonstrate the "technique mixte" in a workshop at CLC from July 30 through Aug. 7. A public reception honoring Betaudier will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on July 31.

The gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mon. through Thur. and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Fri. through July 31, and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mon. through Fri. from Aug. 3 to 14. For information, call Steve Jones at 543-2240.

The music has been selected to please the most advanced dancers, and encourage beginners to improve their skills and take part in the fun of ballroom dancing. Dancers will enjoy the music of the world's most famous bands, including The London Pops Orchestra, Nat King Cole, and the Tropical Sounds Orchestra. All types of music and dances are featured: Quickstep, Fox Trot, Viennese Waltz, Rumba, Tango, Cha Cha, Samba, and Swing.

movie review

Brendan O'Neill

How would you react? One view of this equation is being played out on movie screens across the country in "Armageddon." After its summer predecessor "Deep Impact," I was ready for an exciting asteroid-disaster movie that didn't revolve around Tea Leoni's whining.

With the scenario mentioned above in place, the government and NASA get the top minds to come up with a plan to try and deflect, slow down or destroy the "global killer."

The plan is to land on the asteroid as it passes the moon, drill 800 feet into the asteroid and plant a nuclear weapon inside. Once the ship is clear of the asteroid, the bomb would be detonated, breaking the asteroid into two large pieces, sending both glancing harmlessly off Earth's atmosphere.

NASA big wig Dan Truman, played by Billy Bob Thornton in his first major role since "Slingblade," recruits Harry Stamper (Bruce Willis) to head up the team that will drill into the asteroid. Stamper, who is considered the best deep core driller in the world, agrees to the mission only if the crew takes to the asteroid is his crew of roughnecks from his oil derrick.

This rag-tag group of outlaws and social misfits includes Rockhound (Steve Buscemi). The group is rushed through training for the mission, and Buscemi's Rockhound doles out funny one-liner after funny one-liner. At one point the night before the mission, Rockhound borrows $100,000 from a lone shark for an extravagant party at a strip club knowing that he won't come back alive from the mission.

Affleck plays the bold, brash A.J. Frost—Stampers protégé, who has been dating Stampers daughter Grace (Liv Tyler) behind his back. Affleck and Willis bump heads throughout the mission, with their rivalry and respect conflicting until the very end.

The mission has more things go wrong than Apollo 13, including hooking up with a Soviet cosmonaut at an old Russian space station which blows up.

Needless to say, the lesser stars get killed off in one spectacular mishap after another, until finally half of the team is left to finish the job.

With wild special effects and some effective conflict and suspense, Stamper finally detonated the weapon, sacrificing himself to save the Earth and ensure that Frost will take care of Grace now.

that he's gone.

Since I am a sucker for special effects, I will overlook most of the painfully obvious and corny moments because you have to expect that from a summer action blockbuster.

Based on visuals, funny, superficial characters, corny moments and the fact that it was much better than "Deep Impact" (the other doomsday asteroid movie), I give "Armageddon" 3 1/2 popcorn boxes.

Saving money on vacation is a relative skill

Today we continue with part two of our exciting Pacific Northwest travelogue. We'll begin with our arrival at our first travel destination: the Portland, Oregon airport baggage claim area.

Just kidding, although I am hoping you were smart enough to borrow your in-laws luggage like I was. The reason I say this is because my dear father-in-law is either an extremely wise man or a major stockholder in the duct tape industry, which is why he marked all of their luggage with strips of duct tape, making it easily distinguishable from any similar luggage gliding by on the conveyor. He believes that all problems in life can be solved with duct tape, and lives by this motto: "Life is a roll of duct tape. Just stick it."

Now that we have safely landed and our luggage is in hand, we can breathe a big sigh of relief. Smell those giant Douglas fir trees? Of course you don't, dummy - we're still inside the Portland airport! It's just my cologne - "Eau du Pacific Northwest".

At this point, you would normally pick up your luxurious rental car and drive off to your luxury hotel. At least you would if you had a good paying job. But you're traveling with me. Why do you think I'm going to Oregon in order to get to northern Washington? Because I have a relative in Oregon! With a car! Pay close attention, folks, and you too can vacation cheap!

LIFE'S A BEAR

There's my Dad now. It's lucky he's here to guide us out of this place because the Portland airport is under major construction. In its current disastrous condition, it makes navigating through O'Hare a real cakewalk. (And you thought I wasn't going to provide you with any REAL travel information! Shame on you!)

OK - now we're getting somewhere. There's Dad's Blazer. Hey,

Dad, how did you get such a great parking spot? And by the way, what's that on the windshield? Uh, oh, Dad is pretty miffed. Turns out that thing on the windshield is a ticket, and this is a handicapped parking spot. Which would be okay except Dad's not handicapped. (And no, wise guy, they don't count having me for a daughter as a "handicap". At least not in Oregon.)

And so we begin our trip on the road, with Dad swearing and muttering about the stiff $150 fine and how he didn't see the sign above the handicapped spot instead of the usual symbol on the pavement. (Sure, Dad - that's what they all say!) As for me, I'm feeling guilty about it costing my Dad $150 to pick me up at the airport until I stop and realize - hey! What are visiting relatives for?

Well, people, our patience is finally going to start paying off now. We are actually in a car driving south down Interstate Highway 5 through the beautiful state of Oregon. Of course, by now you must be asking yourself this question - did Donna Abear flunk geography? If she actually wants to go to Washington, why is she driving south with her Dad in Oregon? Shouldn't they be going north to Washington?

All in good time, folks. First we have to actually visit the relatives for a day or two. Then we make them drive us to Washington. It's the least we can do. (There is a certain etiquette to vacation mooching that you have to follow.)

Now that we've got that straight, just sit back and enjoy the scenery. Why, if you look to your left, you can see gigantic fir trees. Unfortunately, they are dead and laying on the flat bed of a logging truck. We will see a lot of those in Oregon and Washington.

But don't worry - those logging companies aren't destroying the irreplaceable beauty of the Pacific Northwest for nothing! Why, those magnificent trees are probably on their way to Japan, where they will sell for a lot more than they would here! And in the meantime, our lumber prices will keep rising because big trees are becoming so scarce.

Doesn't that make you feel better? No? WELL, GET OVER IT! We don't care how you feel, unless you're a spotted owl!

And speaking of animals that are endangered, there's my Dad's dog, barking and jumping like a kangaroo on crack, which means we've finally arrived at Dad's place, four hours south of the Portland airport in beautiful North Bend, Oregon. His home is on a wooded hillside, only a short drive from the ocean, which is good because if his dog does not stop dancing on my leg, I won't have far to drive when I take that mutt for a swim...when the tide is going out.

Just kidding, of course. We budget travelers simply have to remind ourselves that sexual harassment by a deranged dog is a small price to pay for the company of our distant loved ones. (Not to mention free food and lodging.)

NEXT WEEK: After a day of sightseeing in Oregon, we're off to "Twin Peaks" country - and not a moment too soon for that dog, either!

Good intentions, harsh words, lost friends

Dear Dr. Singer,

My daughter is 8 and seems to have a problem expressing herself. She comes on like a bulldozer. Many of the kids in our neighborhood and at her camp tend to stay away from her because she can be brash and brazen at best and really nasty at worst.

Even though it seems that she has the best intentions at heart, she still comes on too strong and offends people. G.L.

Dear G.L.,

There are several reasons people can be nasty to others. I am going to mention them here, even though, only one may apply to your daughter. Since I don't know you personally, there is no way for me to specifically say why your daughter is doing this.

Three reasons come to my mind.

First reason: The person saying these things can be feeling insecure for some reason and that insecurity is coming out at other people in the form of criticism.

The second thing that can happen is that the person has learned to communicate in this manner by watching others in his or her environment that have gained power using those types of behaviors.

The third possibility is that the person is truly trying to be helpful, but doesn't quite know how to sound helpful without being negative.

Which one of these your daughter is, will be more familiar to you. Before you can determine what to do about it, you need to know which one of these reasons is the problem.

In general, it might be good to go over with your daughter that age old adage, "If you don't have something nice to say, don't say anything."

Sometimes that is hard to do.

I would suggest that you talk to your daughter about this and find out why she has said the things she has. Make it specific to a certain situation so she can tell you her intentions. If you find that it is insecurity based or jealousy based, you can then deal with that issue which will help to clear up her communications. You might want to do that with a therapist so that you can get to the bottom of things quickly.

If it is imitation of someone in your lives that is doing the same thing and getting power for it, it's harder, because you are then getting into, "Do as I say, not as I do." This is very confusing for kids. It might be worthwhile for you to take a good look at all the adults in your daughter's world and see if any of them are, in fact, very critical.

PARENT'S PLACE

Some people actually feel that they are showing love through criticism. My grandmother, God rest her soul, used to have a phrase she called, "Constructive Criticism." She truly felt she was showing love through those words.

She clearly loved us more than she loved herself, but her communications would be somewhat harsh at times. Your daughter may have very good intentions, but the hard part is, the other kids don't know that, and end up not getting the message.

If there is someone in your family who does this behavior, it might be wise to ask them to not do it in front of the child or to minimize it.

No matter which option it is that is causing this, it obviously needs to get resolved. I would suggest some role playing between you and your daughter.

Role play a situation that goes wrong and then have her generate ideas of how she or you could have said something differently so as to help the other person feel cared about. Role play often so it becomes a habit. One thing we know is that people generally gravitate toward those who are interested in them and those who make them feel good.

If you can role play with your daughter and teach her this skill while investigating why she is having trouble with this in the first place, you will more than likely take care of the problem.

HEALTHWATCH

B10 / Lakeland Newspapers

July 17, 1998

Skin cancer is becoming a major health issue

At the current rate, one in five Americans will develop skin cancer during their lifetime. Since overexposure to the sun is the primary cause, understanding the methods for protection and prevention of skin cancer are critically important.

A recent widely-reported study, by a researcher at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, incorrectly claimed that sunscreens do not protect against skin cancer. Due to this misinformation, doctors across the country have received telephone calls from patients who are confused or worse, feel they no longer need to use sunscreen.

How important is it for people to continue to use sunscreen?

Consider this: If only 10 percent of Americans who are now using sunscreen stop, an additional one million cases of skin cancer could be expected in the next several decades. If parents stop putting sunscreen on their children, the number of new skin cancers could jump tens of millions as we go into the next century.

The study looked at patients who were using sunscreens before 1980, well before broad-spectrum, Sun Protection Factor (SPF) 15 became widely available in 1984. There is a period of at least 10 to 20 years from sun exposure to the clinical appearance of skin cancer. Sunscreens would have had little impact on the patients studied.

Many well-documented studies from notable organizations such as the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (Food and Drug Administration), the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Cancer Society, and the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons join the American Academy of Dermatology in saying that the use of sunscreen products is an important tool in the prevention of skin cancer.

The irony is that the author of the study agrees that sunscreen use should be encouraged, not discouraged. One week after her report was released, she sent a letter to the American Academy of Dermatology stating, "Like you, I strongly agree that sunscreen is an excellent component of a good sun protection program."

Sunscreen alone does not provide 100% protection from the sun. A complete sun protection program also includes a wide-brimmed hat, avoiding the sun between 10 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., protective clothing and more. However, the importance of sunscreen on otherwise unprotected skin should not be underestimated.

The AAD is gravely concerned about the health consequences of public confusion about the safety and efficacy of sunscreen after the recent reports about the study. For more information about skin cancer, the sun and your skin or sun protection and children, please contact the AAD at 1-888-462-DERM or on the World Wide Web at www.aad.org.

Volunteers make a difference at Medical Center

Unselfishly giving time to help others is an extraordinary trait, common among the 76 people who volunteer at Midwestern Regional Medical Center in Zion. Their kindness, consideration and hard work were honored recently during the annual volunteer appreciation celebration held during a dinner at the Illinois Beach Resort in Zion.

"We greatly appreciate the time you share, your commitment, efforts, warmth and care," said Sandy Grasser, director of the volunteer program. Your every deed conveys thought and concern, and your friendly smiles help our patients feel better. We are pleased to take this opportunity to express our praise and to thank you for touching so many lives, in so many ways."

Lolita Halter, Zion, was selected by her fellow volunteers as the Adult Volunteer of the Year for 1998. She joined Midwestern's volunteer team in July 1995.

"Lolita cheerfully assists the pastoral care department by encouraging patients and visitors to attend the worship services, and she takes great pleasure in making sure the room is arranged appropriately for their worship needs," says Mrs. Grasser. "Lolita takes special pleasure in assisting and visiting Spanish-speaking patients and visitors. Spanish is her primary language with English running a close second."

"Lolita helps out in the gift shop whenever there is a special event and you will often find her delivering a homemade treat to a patient or family member. A patient who was being treated at the hospital for an extended period of time praised Lolita by saying, "I never would have made it without her. She was my family to me while I was far from home and so very ill. She would visit with me and run errands for me during my long confinement."

Seventeen-year-old Regina Busch, Zion, was selected by her fellow volunteers as Teen Volunteer of the year of 1998. Regina joined the volunteer team in January 1997.

"Regina enjoys her work in the gift shop and is quite creative in displaying merchandise," says Mrs. Grasser. "Gift shop customers frequently comment on how helpful she is when they are looking for a gift for someone."

Volunteers received patches or pins for contributing between 25 and 6,600 hours accumulative hours.

Contact lenses readily available for people with astigmatism

People with astigmatism now have additional contact lens options available to them due to recent technological advancements and product approvals. For instance, with more frequent replacement contact lenses on the market for astigmatism, a greater number of people have the opportunity.

People who suffer from astigmatism, which is characterized by an irregularly-shaped cornea that distorts vision, have often been told that they are not able to wear contact lenses and must rely on glasses to correct their vision. If they did choose contact lenses, there were a limited number of choices in the toric lens category. (Toric lenses are contact lenses designed specifically to correct astigmatism.) Now, in addition to RGP (rigid gas permeable) lenses, many more patients with astigmatism can wear conventional or frequent replacement soft toric lenses. Frequent replacement soft toric lenses are available with replacement cycles ranging from two weeks to three months and offer the added convenience of having a replacement lens immediately available if one is lost or torn. The availability of all of these types of lenses increases the likelihood that an eye care professional will be able to fit the astigmatic patient with comfortable contact lenses that are right for them.

For more information on contact lenses, please contact the Contact Lens Council (CLC) at 1-800-884-4CLC or on the internet at www.iglobal.com/CLC/.

The CLC is a non-profit organization serving as an educational resource on vision correction for consumers and is devoted to promoting the safe use of contact lenses.

Cleaning tips for allergy sufferers

Everyday, we spend more than 85 percent of our time indoors getting bombarded by contaminants and allergens, such as dust, animal dander, mold, mildew and bacteria. After awhile, these contaminants not only take a toll on our furnishings by wearing away fabric fibers, but they also take a toll on our health.

This spring, homeowners can reduce the amount of allergens that trigger allergies and allergy-induced asthma from their home by following these tips:

- Vacuum and dry clean draperies. If possible, purchase machine washable draperies so they can be washed frequently in
- 130 degree water.
- If you have pets, try washing walls and doors with a cloth slightly dampened with water to remove some of the sticky, invisible dander.
- Dust mites, pollen and animal dander cling to furniture cushions. Cover cloth furniture with slip covers so they can be cleaned regularly.
- Deter ants by washing counters, cabinets and floors with equal parts of vinegar and water.

• To prevent mildew from forming in your refrigerator, wipe the inside with vinegar. The acid effectively kills mildew fungus.

• Place doormats inside your entryways as well as outside your doors to reduce the amount of outside dirt that gets tracked in.

It's not too late to plant

July is speeding by and everything is growing, and growing quite fast, too. My flower beds have taken on a natural "wild" look. I can see many of my perennials will need to be divided in the fall. Also some of them need to be relocated, to a roomier spot, because they have outgrown where they are planted presently.

Continue to "dead head" all annuals and perennials. Please make this a habit. If you don't do this, your plants will stop producing blooms and will produce seed heads instead. Petunias, pinks, and violets are famous for this trait. When this begins to happen, simply give them a good trim, they'll thank you for it. They will bloom again and again. Please continue to fertilize and check frequently for insect damage.

My corn germinated very spotty this year—I pondered whether to replant, I did—we'll see what happens. Which brings to mind, many plants can be started from seed at this time of year. In the veggie category you can continue to sow beans, and herbs. If you sow the herbs in a container, you can then bring them into a sunny window, when the weather warms.

Through August you can sow lettuce, broccoli, radishes, peas and spinach for a fall harvest. Many of our early veggies and herbs go to seed in the heat. Replanting now, is a smart idea. Actually, the best crop of lettuce I ever grew was in the fall. Lettuce has a habit of going bitter with the heat, and you do not have that problem in the fall. Parsley and cilantro grow great in cooler weather also. I let my cilantro go to seed, and it reseeds itself for the fall, and then again in spring.

Getting back to the perennial flower beds—perennials can be sown directly in the garden now. Just make sure you mark them so you know where they are, (or believe me, you will forget). In the fall, or early spring just transplant them to their permanent position in the garden. Of course, they will not bloom this year, but will reward you with blooms next season. This reminds me, perennials tend to grow so big—please allow space for them to spread.

A garden journal is helpful, to jot down what perennials will need relocating in the fall, which ones have done great etc. Journaling is fun too, it helps you to remember your garden year after year.

You can include photos to enhance your memory. I thought this was a neat quote. "If seeds in the black earth can turn into such beautiful roses, what might not the heart of man become in its long journey toward the stars." G.K. Chesterton.

Happy gardening, peace.

Keep your trees healthy throughout the summer

(MS) — The hard work you've put into your yard finally has paid off. Your grass is green, your flowers are in bloom and your trees are flourishing. If you only could keep it that way throughout the summer heat and drought.

Grass and flowering plants show signs of heat stress early and can be taken care of easily by a good watering. However, trees show signs of drought damage or malnutrition slowly, because their roots are located deep underground. By the time the problem is detected, it is often too late, and the gardener is faced with the costly, disruptive task of removing and replacing the tree.

To avoid such problems and maintain healthy trees, experts recommend watering and fertilizing below the soil's surface, where most of the active tree roots grow. An effective product designed specifically for this purpose is the Ross® Root Feeder by Easy Gardener.

This root feeder is constructed of a molded plastic body with a clear fertilizer chamber and a 26.5-inch feeding tube. Watering and fertilization are easy: Simply connect a garden hose to the root feeder, and insert the feeding tube into the soil around the drip line of a tree. Water flows through a chamber filled with fertilizer, down the feeding tube and deep into the ground — right where tree roots are located.

It is important to reach the tree's feeder roots, which are located 6 inches to 10 inches underground, to help trees remain healthy, as well as recover from diseases and drought. The Ross Root Feeder prevents loss of precious water through evaporation during watering and ensures that all the life-giving nutrients get to the tree roots, where they are needed most.

By feeding and watering your trees with this root feeder early in the season, you will prepare your trees for the heat and low levels of rain that come with summer. In areas where there is water conservation or when there is little or no rain, it is especially important to get the appropriate amount of water directly to the feeder roots, and it should be done before the trees show signs of stress. Later in the season, when burning sun, drying winds and drought conditions can stress even the strongest trees, you can be assured that by using the Ross Root Feeder, your trees are receiving the moisture and nutrients they need.

Fertilizers for the root feeder are available in several formulas to ensure the proper nutrients for your trees and other plants. They are Evergreen/Acid Loving Plants, Fruit and Nut Trees, Rose and Flowering Shrubs, Trees and Shrubs, Green Again/Iron Formula, Citrus Trees, and Systemic Insecticides.

Watering and fertilizing throughout the season with the Ross Root Feeder rewards gardeners with years of growth and healthy, beautiful trees. You can find the root feeder and its fertilizer refills at garden retailers. For more information, call 1-800-223-5030.

Sign of the times: A winning day for waterfowl

Advocates win battle to post animal crossing signs

By LIZ THOMSEN
Staff Reporter

Ducks and geese in unincorporated Lake Villa who cross Petite Lake Road might now be able count on cars slowing down to let them pass.

Thanks to the efforts of a county board member and two local residents, shiny yellow triangular "Wildlife Crossing" signs grace Petite Lake Road near State Route 83. The signs were installed by the County Highway Department on July 10. One sign faces east as you go up the hill towards the crossing area, and the other faces west, about 50 yards from the corner of Route 83 and Petite Lake Road.

Residents were concerned after repeatedly witnessing ducks and geese being struck by cars as they tried to cross Petite Lake Road. Eight Canada geese were killed at this location on June 29.

Officials contacted at the county were initially reluctant to put up any signs.

Residents Debbie McGraw and Skip Perry are ecstatic the new signs are in place.

"I am so excited about this," said McGraw. "We may not be here forever, but at least these signs will be. If they save even one duck, it's worth it."

McGraw felt that the signs came too late for this year, as all the geese are gone, killed on the road. But she thinks more will come back next year.

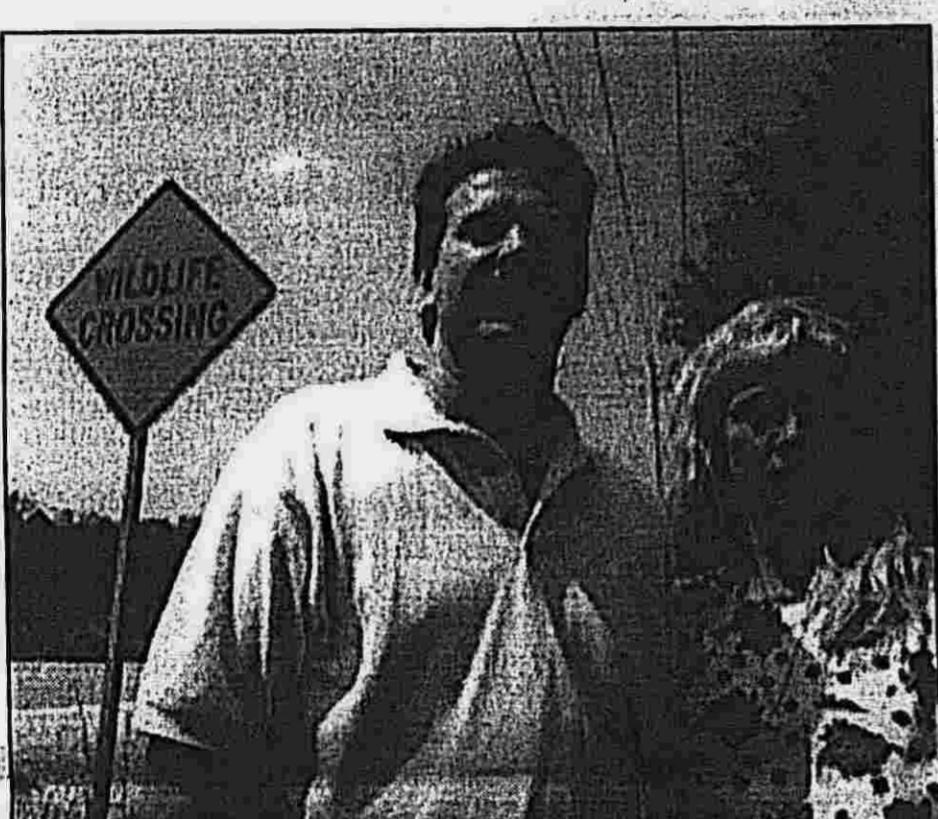

The marshy area is part of the Cedar Lake watershed and is classified as high quality wetland.

These are ADID wetlands and the wildlife is federally protected, according to Lake County Board Member Suzi Schmidt (Dist. 3).

"This is on both sides of the road, and the area is very low," said Schmidt. "This is just a different situation."

When Schmidt heard about the situation on Petite Lake Road, she contacted County Superintendent of Highways Martin Buehler. He had the signs up in a week.

"I never just ask them to do frivolous things," said Schmidt. "I save my requests for things that I feel are important."

Skip Perry and Debbie McGraw are enthusiastic about the newly placed "Wildlife Crossing" signs on Petite Lake Road west of Route 83 in Lake Villa. The couple rallied Lake County to place the signs after several geese were killed by passing motorists. —Photo by Sandy Bressner

What's in a village name?

Striking out on its own, Round Lake Beach wants name change

By LIZ THOMSEN
Staff Reporter

What's in a name? The dictionary defines a name as: "A word or phrase that constitutes the distinctive designation of a person or a thing."

Your name is your moniker, title, trademark, byword, lable, tag, or handle. A name says a lot about who you are.

The Village of Round Lake Beach, otherwise known as "the Beach," wants to change its name. Not since Mundelein changed its name in 1925 has a village in Lake County taken such a dramatic step.

Name changing in Lake County has an interesting history. Mundelein has undergone five name changes, according to Diana Dretske, Lake County Museum Collections Coordinator. Gurnee was known as Wentworth, and then O'Plaine. Waukegan was known as Little Fort for the early military installation on the shores of Lake Michigan.

The history of Lake County village names and how they came about is Dretske's specialty. Dretske suggests Munger Lake as the new name for Round Lake Beach, from one of the early 1830's settlers.

Officials may look to historical figures, landmarks, or geographic features when choosing a new name for Round Lake Beach.

The Round Laek area started as a summer community for wealthy Chicagoans. It is rife with historical names of early settlers.

Amaria A. White successfully promoted incorporation of the village of Round Lake in 1901, and became the first mayor.

George P. Renahan built the first hotel on the east shore of the lake in 1902.

Round Lake Park was incorporated in the mid 1940s and Round Lake Heights in the 1950s, from the former Indian Hill subdivision.

Round Lake Beach came into existence following World War I, when Chicago residents began establishing summer homes around the lake. In 1929, L.B. Harris, a Chicago real estate developer, created permanent housing and many people refurbished summer cottages into permanent homes.

Round Lake Beach was incorporated in 1937, by attorney Bernard Juron.

"It's kind of a funny story," said Carl Schrimpf, former Mayor of Round Lake Beach.

Schrimpf served the community

Warfield to student: 'I'm not sex starved, just love starved'

Trial begins for former Libertyville High teacher accused of taking student out of class

By JASON J. KING
& LEE FILAS
Staff Reporters

The trial of a former Libertyville Community High School teacher accused of taking a student out of class and kissing her on the neck, began this Wednesday in Waukegan.

Andrew Warfield, 45, of Evanston, is on trial on a misdemeanor battery charge stemming from the incident involving a former creative writing student of his.

The student, who was 16-years-old at the time and has since turned 17, took the stand Wednesday and told Judge John T. Phillips her account of the events of Oct. 10, 1997.

The girl, who now lives in Massachusetts, told Phillips during questioning she had frequently visited Warfield's class the week of the incident where the two would sit together and talk.

The morning of the 10th, she said, Warfield took her out in the hallway of the high school and took a few pictures of her.

"After he took the pictures of me he asked me if I have ever been tree climbing. I said no, he asked me if I wanted to go and I said OK," she recounted.

Later that day, she said, after she checked to make sure she had a substitute teacher for her ninth hour photography class, Warfield wrote a pass to get her out of class.

"I met Mr. Warfield in his classroom, we walked to the parking lot, got into his car and he drove me to the woods across from Ashbury Woods," she said. "We got out of the car and went into the woods. He took pictures of me. He took out his guitar and sang a little."

After sometime, they went to a

Dead at 49, Maddex remembered as model for women, children

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

Mary Pat Maddex, 49, who died of cancer on July 7, is remembered as an individual who made a substantial difference in the lives of countless children and their families in Lake County.

Through her 27 years of work in the welfare system, she became known by her colleagues as a leader committed to helping women and children lead productive lives.

"She had a real passion for children," said Pam Thompson, executive director of the Northern Illinois Council on Alcohol and Substance Abuse's program for women and children. "She never hesitated to help out and she made a real impact on the DCFS system in Lake County."

Maddex began her career in the child welfare field in 1971 at the Central Baptist Children's home. She then worked for the Department of Children and Family Services for 23 years, moving up the ranks to supervisor in 1985. She received a master's degree in social work from Loyola University in Chicago in 1984.

As a supervisor for DCFS' child welfare unit, she initiated several programs that improved the child welfare system. For example, she worked with Lake County Juvenile Court Judge Margaret Mullen to develop a home for women recovering from alcohol or drug abuse.

Maddex:
Advocate for children

Recognizing that these women tended to relapse after completing a substance abuse treatment program, she pushed for the creation of a home that would support their sobriety. She was instrumental in obtaining a federal grant for the purchase of an apartment building in Gurnee that will provide transitional housing for such women. The building will be named in her honor.

Maddex was also concerned about the welfare of foster children. In addition to being a foster parent herself, she helped increase foster care in Lake County by forming the Foster Hope Network with the Lake County Juvenile Court.

"Mary Pat had a deep sense of responsibility to kids and families involved in juvenile court," said Mullen.

She was instrumental in helping NICASA obtain a 3-year $1.5 million grant for women with children living in poverty.

"In order to get the program going, we needed an ally at DCFS who understood that cases are often a result of drug addiction," said Judy Fried, NICASA's executive director. "Mary Pat really supported women throughout their treatment. I've never encountered a more selfless individual."

Memorial gifts may be made to the Mary Pat Maddex Safe Housing Fund in care of John Maloney Funeral Home, 1359 W. Devon Avenue, Chicago, Ill., 60660.

"We got on the bridge, sat on the bridge and he asked if he could put his head in my lap," she said. "He asked me to run my fingers through his hair and then said I wasn't doing it right and he asked me to do it harder."

"We were looking out over the bridge when he leaned over and kissed me on the neck. Then he said 'I'm sorry.'

"He said, 'I'm sorry. I am not sex starved, just love starved.' I didn't know what that meant," she said.

The girl said she pulled away from Warfield, and then tried to forget it happened.

"I was really confused," she sobbed. "I didn't know what to do, so I pushed it in the back of my mind because it was too gross for me to handle."

The girl waited two months before she reported the incident to the Department of Children and Family Services, who then launched a formal investigation into Warfield. He was subsequently relieved of his teaching duties.

The day the investigation began, Warfield wrote what prosecuting attorney Mary Kay Foy referred to as an admittance to the act, on his classroom chalkboard, which remained in view of the students for at least half a day. A picture of the chalkboard, taken by DCFS, was submitted as evidence in the trial.

"I'd sit with my back to the wall where no one could see us. 'I'm assuming so that no one could see us...,' she said before Sachs objected to her testimony. Phillips sustained the objection.

The girl, along with a friend, also evidently gave Warfield haircuts from time to time.

When questioned by Sachs as to why she waited two months to go to DCFS, she said, "I tried to forget about it. It would cause a big scene and everyone would be mad at me. I didn't want to believe it was true."

"I couldn't believe a teacher I respected and trusted could violate me in such a way. I didn't want to believe it."

Sachs would not say whether or not Warfield will testify in his own defense.

NAME: Round Lake Beach eyes possible name change as mayor for 20 years in two separate terms. The latest 8-year term ended in 1993.

According to Schrimpf, officials sent the name Round Lake Beach in, and the Secretary of State sent it back, saying it would be too confusing with the village of Round Lake.

"Bernard Juron threatened to take it to court, so that's how we got the name," said Schrimpf.

Describing a town by its landmarks and geographic features is also common practice.

Lake Forest is a good example of this. McHenry is named after Fort McHenry.

Two other lakes are identified with the "Beach" besides Round Lake. Hook Lake and Long Lake could be incorporated into the new name.

"There's a certain identity that every village has a right to have," said Round Lake Beach trustee Jerry Mattingly. "I'd like to see something that retains our identity with lakes. Round Lake Beach is a magnificently treed community."

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Barbecue fund-raiser set for Aug. 2

Antioch—Antioch's deep traditions of volunteer-based fund-raising and rescue squad service come together in ten days on Sunday, August 2 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. under the Williams Park Pavilion, rain or sunshine.

This 40th annual event serves up chicken barbecue and an afternoon's worth of auction goodies ranging from an Antioch-built Modern Home Products gas grill to an antique automobile to an imagination's worth of other donated treasures.

There are even four special Beanie Babies that the Antioch Woman's Club will raffle during the event.

The purpose of the auction is to raise funds for the Antioch Rescue Squad, provide a good time for community residents, and give people a chance to come together for a visit.

The Antioch Lions Club will host its 40th Annual Chicken Barbecue Picnic with the support of the Antioch Woman's Club and Antioch Junior Woman's Club.

There is also a series of silent auctions throughout the afternoon. There will be a 50-50 raffle, games, races, and prizes for children, free swimming at the community pool, and fresh dessert for those so inclined.

Tickets for the barbecue can be purchased from all Lions members, at Antioch Village Hall, First National Bank-Employee Owned, State Bank of The Lakes, First National Bank of Chicago, and Bank of Waukegan.

Grayslake—The Grayslake Area Chamber of Commerce and Industry will hold its 7th Annual Fun Run and 5K Road Race Sunday, July 19, at Grayslake Community High School (GCHS), 400 N. Lake Street, rain or shine.

Over 400 participants are expected at the race which includes age categories from four and under, to 70 and over.

The Track Fun Run is the first scheduled race at 8 a.m. on the high school track. Other races include the Track Wheel-Chair Race at 8:15 a.m., the 5K Wheel Chair Road Race at 8:30 a.m. and the 5K Road Race and Fun Run at 8:35 a.m.

It's not too late to register for the races at the reduced rate of $10. Registration will be taken at State Bank of the Lakes, 50 Commerce Drive, Grayslake, Saturday, July 18, 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Registration the day of the race is $12. The Track Fun Run fee is $5 regardless of registration date.

Fueling up for the Fun Run will be easy with a pancake breakfast fundraiser sponsored by the GCHS Band Boosters. The breakfast in the school cafeteria will run from 8 a.m.-1 p.m.

Land owner makes pitch to board

Gurnee—Warren Township Board members left open the door of negotiation regarding their opposition to a rezoning request near Grandwood Park.

"I am here to try and work with you. What makes sense is to have commercial there. That brings in tax revenue without the people," land owner Tim Smith said.

The plan and zoning committee of the Lake County Board has tabled consideration of 64 acre parcel owned by Smith near Grandwood Park. The plan has been discussed by staff and at the zoning committee of the Lake County Board.

Smith suggested a covenant be placed on the property restricting the number of homes. The present plan calls for 20 acres commercial, 10 of which cannot be touched due to the wetland. That leaves 40 acres residential purposes.

"I don't know where it is going. It is frustrating. I am trying to be a good neighbor. I feel I am a victim of the county's zoning," Smith said.

Sue Simpson, Warren Township supervisor, said the board's willingness to revisit the issue is "more than generous." She will talk with Lake County officials to hear their views and a special township board meeting is possible if a compromise can be reached.

Highway commissioner to retire

Libertyville—Libertyville Township highway commissioner Wayne Kick announced last week his intentions to retire at the end of this year.

Kick, 57, in a letter to township supervisor F.T. "Mike" Graham dated July 8, said he intends to take advantage of the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund's early retirement program effective Dec. 31.

Kick has served as highway commissioner since 1989 but has worked in the department for over 20 years.

Chris Bill, 26, of Adrian, Mich., is thrown off a bull at the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce Championship Rodeo last weekend. The bull then jumped on his chest, breaking ribs and puncturing Bill's lung, according to a rodeo official. "I'm at that age where I had to take a look at it (the program)," said Kick.

Kick has suggested his replacement be named as soon as possible, hopefully by the beginning of September, which would give his replacement the chance to get his program set up before winter.

"I will still be here when my replacement is named so the transition should work out very well," said Kick who added he didn't want to get in the way of the new highway commissioner. "You can be in an advisory position but you're kind of in an in-between situation."

Swank submits legal bill to twp.

Libertyville—The "audit" of the practices of the former Libertyville Township administration may end up costing taxpayers a little more as the subject of the "audit" has submitted his legal bills to the township.

Ralph W. Swank Jr., the former township supervisor who was unseated by current supervisor F.T. "Mike" Graham, submitted the bill to the township, for 47.20 hours of legal counsel in June, at a cost of $7,080, that he incurred defending himself from Graham's allegations. Swank was represented by Reid S. Jacobson, of the Chicago law firm of Hinshaw & Culbertson.

Milburn Cain & Co., of Gurnee, was hired by the township to conduct the investigation of eight years of the Swank administration's business practices. Graham alleged that Swank may have transferred up to $100,000 from the township fund to the general assistance fund without transferring the money back. Graham also alleged that previous township attorney Fred Rawles overbilled for legal services never received and overspending on both the township soccer complex and health insurance benefits for township trustees.

State's Attorney Mike Waller's office found no evidence of wrong doing after an investigation of the Milburn Cain report.

Swank, in a letter accompanying the legal bill, cited township resolution 96-R-11, passed in November 1996, by which he claims the township is responsible for his legal costs.

Developer fees to build park, gym

Lindenhurst—Lindenhurst will have a new park and possibly a gymnasium before the year 2000.

The village board unanimously approved allocating $805,000 in developer fees to be used by the park district for general park improvements including construction of a long anticipated gymnasium connected to the existing community center.

The fees to come from Country Place, Harvest Hill, Falling Waters and Farmington Green projects were originally earmarked for the new Millennium Park to be located adjacent to the Bonner Working Farm project of the Lake County Forest Preserve District.

The district is applying for an additional $200,000 matching grant to be used for pedestrian pathways, parking and other amenities at existing parks.

"This is a win-win situation for the village, the developers and the park district," said Tom Lippert Lindenhurst Park District Executive Director. "Releasing the $805,000 in developer fees allows us a golden opportunity to add to facilities without a referendum."

The funds released by the village, collected by using a formula based upon projected land value and residents to come into a development, will be used at various sites including Slove Park, adjacent to the existing village hall, the area of Beck Basin and a possible park location on a vacant lot at the south end of Lake Linden.

Motorcyclists to ride for kids

Lake Villa—A group of bikers will gather in Lake Villa early Sunday morning, but residents don't have to be concerned.

The motorcyclists are gathering for the sixth annual Ride For Kids, held to benefit the Pediatric Brain Tumor Foundation of the United States.

The ride begins at 7 a.m. on July 19, and all bikers are welcome to ride and show their support. The basic registration fee is $35. Each additional $300 raised in donations wins a chance to win a Honda motorcycle.

Sponsored by Nielsen Enterprises, the ride starts at 130 south Route 83, at Nielsen's dealership. It continues on to Oakbrook, where the lake Villa riders will meet up with over 1500 other cycle riders. They will continue on with an automobile escort, to Wabansie College in Sandwich. Riders cover approximately 175 miles by the end of the day.

Round Lake Beach wants new name

Round Lake Beach—What's in a name? The dictionary defines name as: "A word or phrase that constitutes the distinctive designation of a person or a thing."

The Village of Round Lake Beach, otherwise known as "the Beach," wants to change its name. Not since Mundelein changed its name in 1925 has a village taken such a dramatic step.

The village Community Development department has developed a six point plan to implement the name change.

A Rename the Beach committee will be created consisting of residents from all parts of the village.

"Whenever a village wants to change its image it begins by changing its name. This is not the same village it was 30 years ago," said H.C. Joel Webb, director of Community Development.

CBCH hosts golf outing

Lake Villa—Central Baptist Children's Home will host their 6th Annual Children First Blue Ribbon Golf Invitational Wednesday, July 22 at the Steeple Chase Golf Club in Mundelein.

Business sponsorship opportunities and golf openings are still available.

Interested people can obtain further information at 847-356-2391.

Proceeds from the golf outing will benefit the agency's child abuse awareness and prevention programs.

Participants in the golf invitational will play 18-holes of golf with a cart, dinner, silent auction, and door prizes.

Central Baptist Children's Home, a 103 year old child welfare agency, serves 8,000 families annually through community-based offices throughout the state. The agency has celebrated their 50th anniversary of serving their children in 1998.

The agency undertakes events, such as the golf outing, to heighten awareness of the problem and to assist families with the responsibilities of parenthood.

The Name Game: Name alone will not change image

The Village of Round Lake Beach this week renewed discussions about changing the name of the central Lake County town, in an effort to revitalize the village's image and help distinguish themselves from other Round Lake communities.

Mayor Ralph Davis, who was raised in the area, says "we're not just the Beach anymore. We're different. It's part of an image issue and how the area is viewed."

"We're rebuilding our image," said Trustee Nicki Johnson, by changing the whole community inside and out, maybe. We want our own identity and need to separate ourselves from the other Round Lake communities."

The Round Lake area started as a summer community for wealthy Chicagoans. The first permanent residents began arriving after World War I.

There seems to be little opposition amongst village leaders to changing the name.

The village will take the next step, July 27 when they vote on whether to form an independent committee to work on changing the name of the village. Committee workers will be responsible for soliciting and collecting possible name changes and checking to see if the name changes duplicate any existing names in the state of Illinois.

The name may be easily changed, but Davis and his successors will still have the problems of Round Lake Beach to solve.

There is a changing demographic basis, a school system which despite its efforts, continues to struggle and municipal services which are shared with neighboring Round Lakes.

The energy devoted to a finding a new name may be better channeled to changing the quality of life in the community so that it finds renewal in its new moniker.

As Shakespeare so appropriately penned: "What is a name? That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

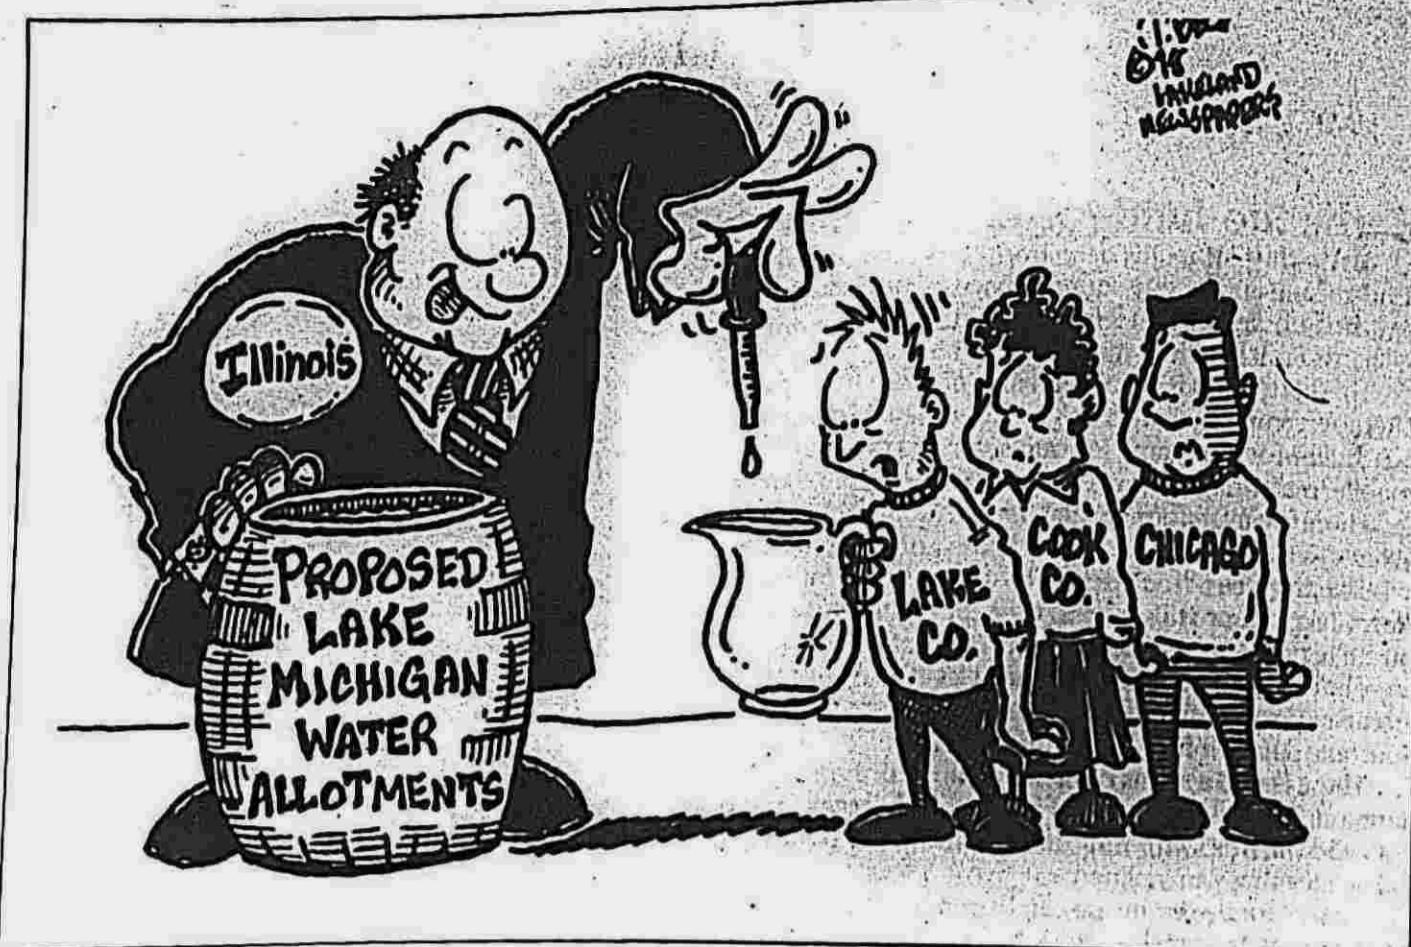

By any other name, Round Lake Beach, would still be the Beach.

Lack of opposition reflects satisfaction

Lake County, sharing two Congressional districts, is a microcosm of the national political picture regarding House races this fall. In what is regarded as the largest figure since World War II, 83 U.S. representatives are running for reelection unopposed, 51 Republicans and 32 Democrats.

One of the unopposed House members is Congressman John Porter, a highly regarded Republican who represents eastern Lake County townships and parts of the North Shore. Congressman Phil Crane, a resident of Wauconda who has represented northwest Cook County and western townships in Lake County for 30 years, faces only token Democratic opposition in November.

What the lack of opposition indicates is little turnover, which is a reflection of both satisfaction on the part of electors and little or no change in their political philosophy. Only possible change in the Illinois House delegation is the loss of a Democratic seat in western Illinois where veteran Democrat and UAW apologist Lane Evans is facing stiff opposition from a television news anchor from the Quad Cities.

VIEWPOINT

Flag protection amendment is not the answer

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Managing Editor

There is a growing movement in America for the adoption of constitutional amendment to protect our nation's flag.

The full Senate is expected to vote on the proposal this summer.

The leaders of the movement for a constitutional amendment come from all backgrounds. They are proud members of the American Legion and VFW organizations as well as ordinary citizens taught to respect the sacred symbol of our nation. They are people who are outraged at the lack of respect for the flag among Americans today.

I, too, am outraged that Americans don't seem to show the same respect for the flag today as their grandparents did.

I, too, am outraged that youngsters have not been taught to stand tall and place their hands over their hearts when our nation's flag passes in front of them during a parade.

I, too, am outraged that many Americans don't recognize an individual dressed in a uniform signifying they are a volunteer in our nation's military.

But, I am one American who does not support the constitutional amendment.

Before, you stop reading, let me clarify some misconceptions you may have just formed about me.

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Managing Editor

I'm not just another under 40 liberal journalist who believes that the flag is "just a piece of cloth" and who holds the First Amendment close to her heart.

I actually know the words to the Star Spangled Banner and I know what it is like to be called to duty by your nation, leaving your family behind.

You see, I am a veteran. I served 10 years on active duty in the U.S. Navy and I am still an active Naval Reservist. I was one of the first women to serve on a ship, I've been to sea, I was called to Desert Storm, leaving a 2 and a 4-year-old behind for several months.

I did not follow a family tradition when I chose to join the military, I followed a love for my country.

In my years of service, in my experiences around the world, I have grown to love the sight of the American flag flying and the symbolism it brings to people around the world. But, I have also learned that America is not the flag. Desecration of the flag, doesn't desecrate our nation.

Our nation was founded on freedom of expression. Values our forefathers held dear to their hearts. Values many of our nation's youngest and brightest have given their lives to preserve.

If you don't believe we are different from the other nations of the world, just visit another nation, or live in one.

I, like most Americans, cringe when I see or hear of the flag being desecrated, but a constitutional amendment is not the answer.

Americans have always been able to express their opinions about this nation, even when their opinions have not been popular.

We have laws on the books for criminal damage to property, in many cases where the flag has been desecrated, so has other property. Charge the vandals with criminal damage.

Today's America may need many things including a revival of good manners, but it doesn't need a law to legislate against freedom of expression.

Opinions are not always popular, but Americans have always respected the right to express one. America should stay that way.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Battle lines being drawn

Overcoming voter apathy appears to be the biggest challenge facing candidates in the 1998 general election.

Democratic candidate for Lake County Clerk Linda Hess and Republican incumbent Willard Helander have already drawn lines in the road, or perhaps more appropriately on the parade route.

Hess has accused Helander of violating election codes by distributing emery boards and other items with her slogan "A Woman Named Willard," on them along the parade route.

The problem is not with the goods, but in who is footing the bill. Hess traced payment for the items to the county clerk's budget.

Helander's first response was denial, but when Hess produced photos of a campaign worker distributing the items, Helander apologized for the error, saying it was an oversight.

The irony of the situation is that many voters simply don't care.

This is one Lake County election that is likely to become a PR battle, because both candidates say little will change in day to day operations of the office, no matter who is at the helm.

It is also an election battle that will likely see "beltway" politics making their way to the heartland.

Deimler keeping cool

Mike Deimler, a newcomer in politics, is keeping his customers cool this summer so that he can make things hot for his opponent this fall.

Deimler, the Democratic nominee for state representative from the 59th District in north Lake County is the owner and operator of an air conditioning business, so the summer months are his busy season.

Although this is Deimler's first run at public office, he has worked on campaigns before in and

Hess: Accuses opponent of misuse of funds

Helander: It's just an oversight

Schmidt: A great marriage.'

around his home community of Wadsworth.

Deimler is running against

Antioch Supervisor Tim Osmond, the Republican choice to succeed State Representative Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa), who is giving up a seat he has held since the early 1980s.

Deimler describes himself as a conservative who is a Democrat. Osmond is characterized as a Republican who is conservative.

Why Joan jumped

Friends of Dr. Joan Hochschild, former superintendent of Grayslake Elementary School District 46, didn't jump a new job on the north shore for higher pay. She left Grayslake after six years due to differences with the board of education majority. Hochschild, highly regarded as an educator, wanted Grayslake to be her last stop after a long career as a teacher administrator.

Schmidt praises cooperation

Lake County Board representative Suzi Schmidt (R-Dist. 3) has high praise for the cooperation between the Lindenhurst Park District and Lake County Forest Preserve District. The two units of government will build adjacent public facilities.

The Forest Preserve's historic Bonner Farm property is next to the park district's Millennium Park. "With the Forest Preserve right next door with the Bonner farm... It's going to be a heck of a great marriage... being able to utilize the facilities together," she told Lindenhurst Park District Commissioners.

The Park District has received an $826,000 State of Illinois Department of Natural Resources grant to build the park. Both the preserve and park districts will build parking lots for their sites next to one another to increase available parking for one another. "I'm really looking forward to sharing between the two bodies of government," Schmidt said.

Golf sanctuary

Friends and I played the new Bittersweet Golf Club in Gurnee for the first time. The challenging public course is cradled in 240 acres of quiet real estate previously undiscovered and unimagined by most of us motoring along the busy bordering roads: Route 45, Grand Avenue, Washington Street and Hunt Club Road.

My foursome will be going back. Players who want to check it out, and aren't consistently straight shooters, might want to bring along some extra golf balls they won't mind losing to the water, woods and marshland that remains a nature conservancy.

Imagine the resident wildlife wondering where all the little white eggs are coming from.

Boys will be boys?

Isn't it odd that baseball managers dress for games in the same apparel the players wear? Do they think they're going to pinch-hit or something? Wouldn't it seem goofy if Mike Ditka and other football coaches stood on the sidelines in uniforms, shoulder pads and helmets?

Public must decide how Libertyville Twp. should spend funds

By all accounts, the Libertyville Township Supervisor and Town Board plan to sell without voter approval over $40 million dollars in additional open space bonds that will cost taxpayers over $75 million dollars in additional future property taxes.

The supervisor, trustees, bond broker and bond counsel have all received a comprehensive legal opinion from our Association of Libertyville Township Property Owners' attorney stating that according to the current law, the Town Board must go to referendum and let the voters decide if they wish to sell the bonds.

Graham and all of his Open Space supporters should have no trouble convincing a majority of township voters that the Township Open Space Plan will stop development, abate traffic congestion, slow down sprawl and stop our escalating property taxes. These are the same arguments Graham used with his first open space plan in 1986. If it worked so well then, it should probably work again. The only difference now is the massive Cuneo development is well underway and his first plan was to stop it, abate traffic congestion, slow down sprawl and stop our escalating property taxes.

With such a record on open space, could it be Graham and three of his trustees are afraid the voters might regret the plan?

As F.T. "Mike" Graham is quoted as saying—"once fooled, shame on me—twice fooled, shame on you."

ComEd shuts down utility efficiency

We are finding out after the fact that ComEd's strategy for dealing with hot weather is to shut off our power. With the media's feeding frenzy over this discovery, we are distracted from ComEd's overall plan to maximize their revenues by continuing to sell the residential rate payers more power than we really need.

Remember that only this spring, ComEd mounted a monumental and expensive lobbying campaign to defeat electric efficiency legislation in Springfield. That legislation would have encouraged thousands to scrap their old air conditioners for new much more efficient ones. It enjoyed overwhelming bipartisan and bicameral support (including our own Senators Geo-Karis, and Link, and Representatives Moore, Gash, Beaubien, and Wood), and would have easily passed. Instead, ComEd "convinced" the President of the State Executive Senator James "Pete" Philip, to trap these energy efficiency proposals in his Rules committee. With Zion already shuttered, it becomes increasingly clear that "Rolling Blackouts" are part of ComEd's premeditated strategy to sell every kilowatt they can generate. In the process, they have manipulated the legislation to try to prove to us that efficiency and reserve generating capacity are luxuries that they cannot afford in a deregulated market.

They admitted they were wrong about their decision to invest in nuclear power in the 70s. Now they are wrong about opposing efficiency investment in the 90s. Today on TV they announced that they were intensely investigating efficiency measures. Who are they trying to fool now? Ask your Illinois representatives to pass efficiency legislation this year.

An advertisement I got in the mail illustrates the point: "Reduce your cooling bills by as much as 30 percent—from $1,299 installed." At my 1970s house, the savings from this new air conditioner would pay for itself in four years. If the legislation had passed, tax credits would have made it less than three years. I'd do it. And, with a 30 percent reduction in residential electricity demand, there would still be enough reserve generating capacity, even on hot days, so that I could count on being able to use it.

Power industry lobbyists are also hard at work in Washington, opposing investment in more efficient houses, cars, and industries. Ask your Congressman to support the Fox Amendment, to restore funding for these successful efficiency partnerships.

Decisions should be public

As the Illinois Toll Authority talks about including more public input in its new studies of the proposed Route 53 extension, only one thing is missing from the equation—the public itself.

The Toll Authority, along with the Illinois Department of Transportation, is presiding over the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project, a euphemism for the rebirth of the proposed Route 53

Tollway. As part of the new endeavor, state officials have extended an unconditional invitation to county residents to provide input into the controversial tollway or any other viable alternatives. Recently a large contingent of elected officials and citizens groups accepted the state's offer when they called for the new study to include a citizens' advisory committee.

While this concept is identical to the advisory committees that state officials cheerfully instituted for municipal and county politicians, it was not greeted with the same warm embrace. Instead, state officials were characteristically non-committal, promising only to consider any proposal citizens' groups might submit, but refusing to promise that direct public participation, in any form, would be allowed. Once again, the Toll Authority opens the door for its cronies, but leaves ordinary citizens banging at the gates.

It's a sad state of affairs when government officials need to be reminded to make their decision-making process open to the public. The Toll Authority has made a sport out of ducking public scrutiny, but this time it has sunk too low.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Part one of a two-part series

Knowing your numbers: What's really happening in your business?

When I was in college, one of my textbooks called accounting "the language of business." Because I was a veteran business owner when I returned to college to finish my degree, I knew something the textbook author didn't. Accounting may be the language of business, but few small-business owners understand, speak or have any strong desire to learn the dialect.

Collecting, recording and managing numbers is not the reason why most men and women go into business. They are lured into entrepreneurship by dreams of wealth, personal success and taking control of their own destiny.

Sadly, not having a full understanding of financial matters, often leads to anxious moments for small-business owners. For nearly ten years I was at the mercy of my accountant. I saw his mouth move, I heard him speak, but I did not comprehend what he was saying.

He spoke of credits and debits, budget variance reconciliation and quick-ratio analyses. I was trying to figure out how I could make payroll on Friday. He discussed the accounting equation, negative retained earnings carryover and his four-page disclaimer of liability. All the while, I was wondering why my sales were up but my profits were down.

In the past ten years, I've worked individually with more than 2,000 small-business owners and taught basic, useful financial management principles to more than 19,000 people. I don't share the opinion of the "Principles of Accounting" author. Accounting, in real-world practice, is the language of accountants. Entrepreneurs don't speak the language, and most have no desire to become bilingual.

Entrepreneurs do want to understand their businesses. They desire to comprehend the cause and effect of financial decisions. They want to manage their numbers and retain more control of their business. What they need initially is not Accounting 101 and 102, but functional financial basics.

Financial Management Basics

Defined simply, financial management is a process of using numbers generated by your business to make operational decisions. Having good numbers lets you make decisions based on facts instead of feelings.

Accounting enters the picture at this point. Good record keeping is a prerequisite to good financial management. You cannot make good decisions without good information. You will make bad decisions if all you have is bad information. Incorrect data are worse than no data at all.

Let's start at the beginning. Every small business needs a separate business checking account. You should deposit all business-related income into this account. You

Success National Bank chairman dies at 58

Saul Binder suffers heart attack

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

Saul Binder, 58, the chairman of Lincolnshire-based Success National Bank, died of a heart attack on Sunday.

He is remembered by his colleagues as a banker with a free way of thinking and innovative marketing ideas.

"He was a bank marketing genius," said Dan Friedlander, president of Friedlander Communications. "He was always coming up

Chicago. "He was very proud that Success had finally come to downtown," said Friedlander.

Over the years, Binder also developed a reputation as a philanthropist. He supported a wide variety of charities, especially medical and religious organizations, and was named Man of the Year by the statewide Jewish Police Association.

He was often viewed as being hyper and aggressive. "He was gruff on the surface," said Friedlander. "But beneath it, he was warmhearted and a very nice person."

In later years, Binder bought a condo in Hawaii where he lived one week out of every month. But he made a point of remaining accessible. He often told his customers to see him personally if they had concerns.

He had plans to continue opening branches in new areas. "He had a vision to build a big bank that would be very successful," said Friedlander. "He just didn't live to finish his vision."

Survey: Executives sing the praises of Tuesday

Survey finds second day of the business week is still most productive

If you're feeling a sense of accomplishment at work, it's not your imagination, it's probably just Tuesday, suggest a new survey. More than half (51 percent) of executives nationwide report the highest levels of employee productivity on Tuesdays. These results closely mirror those of a similar survey conducted in 1987. However, while Fridays were still seen as the least productive work day, Monday's rating leaped from the fourth spot to become the second most unproductive day.

The survey was developed by Accountemps, the world's first and largest temporary staffing service for accounting, finance and bookkeeping professionals. It was conducted by an independent research firm which polled 150 executives from the nation's 1,000 largest companies.

"The work week appears to have its own business cycles during which productivity exhibits peaks and valleys," said Lynn Taylor, vice president and director of research at Accountemps. "In today's corporate climate, however, companies may long for a week of Tuesdays in order to keep major initiatives on track."

"Monday may seem like the busiest day of the week for employees swinging back into the routine after a weekend off, but Tuesday appears to be when everyone puts their

"nose to the grindstone" and accomplishes more work," said Fred Getz, Accountemps area manager.

Accountemps has more than 200 offices throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. The Internet address is www.accountemps.com.

Homes at the villas at Midlane on the auction block Saturday

Rick Levin and associates, Inc., a Chicago-based real estate auction marketing firm, announced it will conduct a multiple-property auction including a developer closeout sale of three brand new single family homes in Wadsworth, Illinois. The auction will take place at 1 p.m. on Saturday, July 18, 1998 at the Sheraton Gateway Suites located at 6501 N. Road in Rosemont, Illinois.

"The owner of these homes has decided to offer them via auction to eliminate the time and expense associated with a conventional marketing program," said Rick Levin, president of Rick Levin and Associates, Inc. "They may then pass the savings along to the bidders at the July 18th auction. Along with today's low interest rates, this is a great opportunity for buyers to purchase these homes at a substantial discount from their original prices."

Located at 3044, 3076 and 3080 Southern Hills Drive in the Villas at Midlane, these brand new ranch style homes have up to 2,111 sq. ft., 2 luxurious baths and feature gourmet kitchen, fireplace, basement, two-car garage and a relaxed golf course setting.

Originally priced from $289,000 to $309,000, these spacious homes have suggested opening bids of $100,000. One of these homes will be sold absolute, regardless of price.

Open houses are scheduled from 1-3 p.m. on Sundays, June 28; July 5 and 12; and from 6-8 p.m. on Wednesday, July 8 and Thursday, July 16.

Other properties in the auction include townhomes in Chicago and Olympia Fields and apartment buildings in Riverdale.

Complete Bidder's Information Packages are available at the scheduled open houses and on-site inspections. Excellent financing is available to qualified buyers on all properties. A cashier's check, as earnest money, is required to bid. For color brochure on the auction, call Rick Levin and Associates, Inc. at (312) 715-1500 or visit their website at www.ricklevin.com.

Classic investing techniques for today's markets

In case you haven't noticed, the investment markets have been jittery for the past several months. Although general economic and financial trends remain favorable, there are grave concerns over the Asian situation, corporate profits and interest rates.

There are large daily fluctuations in the various market averages. News creates activity and lately activity has been anything but dull. Investors, particularly those who are relatively new to investing have been concerned and have considered transfers to cash or to bonds or other "safer" alternatives.

Our general advise to clients is that as long as market fundamentals are sound and your assets are allocated properly, you need do nothing.

An example, Motorola is a fine company with a significant Asian exposure. Recently the stock has been under pressure. Step back and ask is this still a well run company with strong positions in good markets? Yes it is. Hold the stock if you own it...buy some if you have available funds. Good companies weather difficulties!

For those investing regularly through retirement plans like 401Ks, or for those with investable capital, we are recommending that they utilize time-tested investing techniques to successfully invest in these jittery markets. One technique we have described, in previous columns is dollar cost averaging. This commits a consistent amount to selected investments on a regular basis. As markets move up and down, dollar cost averages will benefit in obtaining a lower average cost per share and better gains in the long run.

In investing, like sports, sticking to the basics is usually the best approach. For information on utilizing the techniques we have described, write us at Associates in Financial Planning, 633 Skokie Blvd., Northbrook, IL 60062.

JA program introduces careers in sports, entertainment

For every child who's ever dreamed of a career in sports or entertainment, Junior Achievement Inc. aims to broaden his/hers horizons via a new program that introduces business management opportunities in both fields.

The goal of the program, titled Building Achievement through Sports and Entertainment (B.A.S.E.), is to show students the myriad of career options available in the front office and back stages of sports and entertainment businesses.

"Not every young person who likes basketball is going to be the next Michael Jordan," says Stedman Graham, author of "The Ultimate Guide to Sport Event Management Marketing" and a former player in the European Professional Basketball League. "But if we can take these young peoples' interest in sports and entertainment and show them how they could become a Director of Marketing for the Bulls, we can open a world of opportunity to them."

Graham, who is chairman and CEO of S. Graham and associates, recently launched a fund-raising campaign for JA B.A.S.E. As the project's fund-raising Chair, he has committed $10,000 and will actively recruit members of the sports and entertainment communities to support the program.

"This is an exciting initiative that would not be possible without Stedman's leadership," says James B. Hayes, president and CEO of Junior Achievement Inc. "JA B.A.S.E. will help us make business careers relevant to young people who might not otherwise know these kinds of jobs exist."

JA B.A.S.E. will utilize volunteers from the management ranks of sports and entertainment organizations who will share their experience with students. The goal is to have pilots of the program running by the fall of 1998.

Junior achievement is the largest and fastest-growing non-profit economic education organization in the world. Each year, over 2.7 million elementary, middle, and high school students across the U.S. participate in JA programs. An additional 800,000 young people in 100 countries also take part in JA programs on an annual basis.

According to Hayes, Junior Achievement plans to quadruple the number of students it reaches annually by the year 2005. "Junior Achievement programs currently impact 2.7 million young people each year in this country," says Hayes. "Our objective is to reach 11 million annually in just eight short years."

The goal of 11 million, or 20% of all American school-aged children, is outlined in the organization's strategic plan, ImpACT 2005. The plan, which was developed with the assistance of management consulting McKinsey & Co., will utilize new technologies, as well as new volunteer recruiting and fund raising methods, to reach the ImpACT 2005 goals.

Through Junior Achievement

programs, students are taught to understand and appreciate free enterprise by classroom volunteers from the business community worldwide.

Executive managers get failing marks

Today's hottest executives seem to be, at least according to published job requirements, managers who are "coaches, with strong skills in motivating others, and are "team players" successfully juggling participation on both functional and cross-functional work teams. Their value to their companies as competent producers and bottom-line wizards is a given. What really sets them apart from the rest of the pack is their ability to coach, motivate, and breathe life into a work force that otherwise would be demoralized, fragmented and living a life of quiet desperation.

Kind of makes you think that we have suddenly developed a crop of warm, friendly managers who like nothing more than developing and grooming their subordinates to bring them along to the next phase of their careers, doesn't it?

Not so, says a group of people encircling these Executive Managers. An analysis of merged data from Lominger's VOICESO 360-degree feedback from 6,000 raters identifies the following as the bottom-rated skills of today's executive managers:

- Motivating others
- Developing others
- Picking the right people to get things done
- Celebrating success and sharing credit
- Negotiating deals
- Communicating skillfully
- Being a team player

Corporate America may think they have a cadre of people-motivating managers impacting the work force, but, at least according to those people with whom they interact on a regular basis, their "people skills" leave a lot to be desired. In fact, while they may be salivating at the thought of closing the sale, balancing the books, or getting things done for customers, the data clearly suggest that Executive Managers could benefit a lot from learning how to manage and coach their own employees.

This gap in desired and actual competencies is not very unusual. In fact, according to Dr. Mary Michaels of Drake Beam Morin, a New York-based career management consulting firm, "Most organizations today recognize the need to develop competencies critical for the future success of the organization. However, few provide the structure, systems and processes-in-place to support and measure true development. Just because someone is an excellent manager does not necessarily mean they know how to develop their people. This needs to be learned."

So what do you do if you suspect that you have some skills that need improving? And who do you get to help you? When casting around for a career coach, one of the problems may be that there are more people in need of development plans than there are Human Resource professionals available and willing to help create them.

Drake Beam Morin is working to fill this "training gap" via a new "Developing Strategic Competencies" program. According to Michaels, this process helps employees identify and develop competencies and prepares managers to be developmental coaches. It includes modules such as:

- Changing business and career realities
- Assess your competencies and values
- Analyzing your alignment
- Create development goals and action plans
- Plan on-the-job-follow-through
- Career stallers and stoppers
- Becoming a development coach

"While some think that courses and books are efficient ways to develop competencies, others insist that they can only be learned from on-the-job experiences," notes Michaels. "What the research on development actually indicates is that no one experience or tactic is sufficient by itself."

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear ...Search,

As a recent college graduate with a few interviews under my belt, I was stumped recently when asked toward the end of the interview, "How long have you been looking for a job?". I am guessing that the stunned look on my face may have said it all as I fumbled for a way to answer. So as not to leave too long a lull in the conversation, I answered as bluntly as I could with, "a few months". Looking back, it sounded funny coming out, which could be the reason that shortly after I answered, the interviewer ended our meeting and my guess is that did me in. Did my answer make me sound undesirable and how would you have suggested I should have answered? Thank you for your time.

K.C.-Libertyville

Dear K.C.,

First of all, congratulations on your recent accomplishment. You want to make sure when asked a question that, as you put it, "stumps" you, that you take a deep breath and think of what you want to say and how it will come across to the interviewer. Certainly the last thing you will want to do is to make yourself sound as though you are desperate or unable to find a job. You can easily turn this around by putting more emphasis on wanting to select a "quality" corporation to plant your feet with. Further explaining that you have been exploring the market for a few months sounds more positive. Let the interviewer know that you are searching for something special and that their company is among the few that you have had a serious interest and consideration in.

You failed to mention whether or not you are currently employed while on this search. Hopefully you are, as an employed candidate can be more desirable to an interviewer in that it shows you have the responsibilities of securing income while you conduct your search. Good luck.

Dear ...Search,

When is the proper time on an interview to ask about Salary and Benefits?

A.R.-Lake Villa

Dear A.R.,

This is a question that you want to seriously avoid no matter how much it interests you. Do not focus on this during your interview. The time to find out about benefits and salary is when an offer is made to you. That is of course unless the interviewer brings that conversation to the table prior to an offer. Then, you will want to answer his/her questions and ask your own in response.

It is best not to be the one to bring up this subject on the initial interview. It may give off the impression that the focal point of working for the company is based upon what they can do for you...Your focus during the interview needs to be what you can do for them. Hope this helps.

Letters can be sent to Nancy Sakol c/o Lakeland

Play Better Golf with JACK NICKLAUS

HOW IMPORTANT ARE TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS OF GOLF CLUBS LIKE SWING-WEIGHT? THE ANSWER IS THAT THEY PROVIDE A USEFUL GUIDE TO THE PLAYABILITY OF CLUBS.

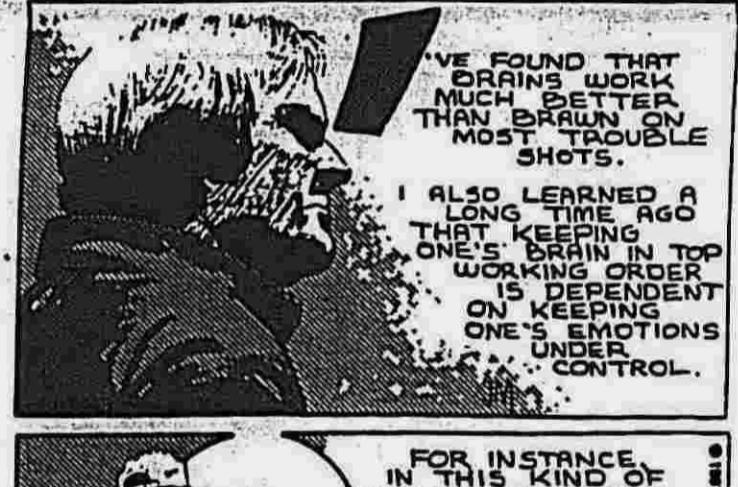

HOWEVER, I WOULDN'T PASS UP A CLUB THAT WORKED WELL FOR ME JUST BECAUSE IT DIDN'T HAVE THE "RIGHT" SPECS. JUDGING BY THE NUMBER OF "MONGREL" CLUBS IN TOUR PLAYERS' BAGS, A LOT OF GOOD GOLFERS FEEL THE SAME WAY.

Play Better Golf with JACK NICKLAUS

I'VE FOUND THAT DRAINS WORK MUCH BETTER THAN BRAIN ON MOST TROUBLE SHOTS. I ALSO LEARNED A LONG TIME AGO THAT KEEPING ONE'S BRAIN IN TOP WORKING ORDER IS DEPENDENT ON KEEPING ONE'S EMOTIONS UNDER CONTROL.

FOR INSTANCE, IN THIS KIND OF "FLIER" SITUATION A G-IRON -- OR EVEN A 7 -- WILL USUALLY TRAVEL AS FAR AS A NORMAL S-IRON. UNFORTUNATELY, THE "HOTTER" YOU BECOME, THE MORE LIKELY YOU ARE TO OVERLOOK SUCH CONSIDERATIONS IN SELECTING YOUR CLUB.

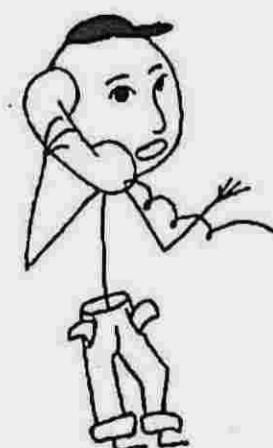

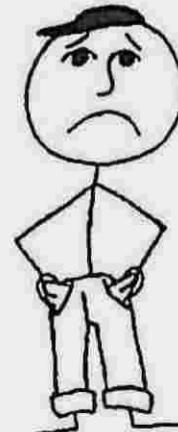

• Beautiful and Challenging par 35, 9 hole layout
• Free golf when you use our Frequent Player Card
• Comprehensive 6 week Junior Golf Program begins June 23rd.
• All weekend tee times available 7 days in advance
• Expert instruction with group golf lessons beginning May 9th.
